Revolution And Improvement:

Scripting Revolution Keith Michael Baker, Dan Edelstein, 2015-10-07 The Arab Spring was heralded and publicly embraced by foreign leaders of many countries that define themselves by their own historic revolutions The contributors to this volume examine the legitimacy of these comparisons by exploring whether or not all modern revolutions follow a pattern or script Traditionally historians have studied revolutions as distinct and separate events Drawing on close familiarity with many different cultures languages and historical transitions this anthology presents the first cohesive historical approach to the comparative study of revolutions This volume argues that the American and French Revolutions provided the genesis of the revolutionary script that was rewritten by Marx which was revised by Lenin and the Bolshevik Revolution which was revised again by Mao and the Chinese Communist Revolution Later revolutions in Cuba and Iran improvised further This script is once again on display in the capitals of the Middle East and North Africa and it will serve as the model for future revolutionary movements

Volume 2 John L. Comaroff, Jean Comaroff, 2009-02-15 In the second of a proposed three volume study John and Jean Comaroff continue their exploration of colonial evangelism and modernity in South Africa Moving beyond the opening moments of the encounter between the British Nonconformist missions and the Southern Tswana peoples Of Revelation and Revolution Volume II explores the complex transactions both epic and ordinary among the various dramatis personae along this colonial frontier The Comaroffs trace many of the major themes of twentieth century South African history back to these formative encounters The relationship between the British evangelists and the Southern Tswana engendered complex exchanges of goods signs and cultural markers that shaped not only African existence but also bourgeois modernity back home in England We see in this volume how the colonial attempt to civilize Africa set in motion a dialectical process that refashioned the everyday lives of all those drawn into its purview creating hybrid cultural forms and potent global forces which persist in the postcolonial age This fascinating study shows how the initiatives of the colonial missions collided with local traditions giving rise to new cultural practices new patterns of production and consumption new senses of style and beauty and new forms of class distinction and ethnicity As noted by reviewers of the first volume the Comaroffs have succeeded in providing a model for the study of colonial encounters By insisting on its dialectical nature they demonstrate that colonialism can no longer be seen as a one sided relationship between the conquering and the conquered It is rather a complex system of reciprocal determinations one whose legacy is very much with us today Evolutionary Theory in the Social Sciences: Evolution and revolution William M. Dugger, 2003 Between Reform and Revolution David E.

Barclay, Eric D. Weitz, 2002-09-01 The powerful impact of Socialism and Communism on modern German history is the theme which is explored by the contributors to this volume Whereas previous investigations have tended to focus on political intellectual and biographical aspects this book captures for the first time the methodological and thematic diversity and richness of current work on the history of the German working class and the political movements that emerged from it Based on original contributions from U S British and German scholars this collection address a wide range of themes and problems
