Literature and Race in Los Angeles Julian Murphet,2001-03-19 Los Angeles is both the most fragmented and the most minoritized metropolis in America and its most luridly abstract and aestheticized city With more than eighty five languages being spoken in its classrooms and one homogeneous visual language emanating from its entertainment industry LA radically challenges the prospects of that archaic representational medium literature In its investigation of the work of Bret Easton Ellis James Ellroy Anna Deveare Smith and others Literature and Race in Los Angeles articulates their aesthetic preoccupations with the structures of social space in the city Harnessing some of the theoretical insights of Henri Lefebvre and the LA school of geographers Murphet demonstrates the versatility of literary production in LA and speculates about the fortunes of literature in a predominantly visual culture

Racism and Resistance Franziska Meister,2017-04-15 Even a cursory look at U S society today reveals that protests against racial discrimination are by no means a thing of the past What can we learn from past movements in order to understand the workings of racism and resistance In this book Franziska Meister revisits the Black Panther Party and offers a new perspective on the Party as a whole and its struggle for racial social justice She shows how the Panthers were engaged in exposing structural racism in the U S and depicts them as uniquely resourceful imaginative and subversive in the ways they challenged White Supremacy while at the same time revolutionizing both the self conception and the public image of black people Meister thus highlights an often marginalized aspect of the Panthers how they sought to reach a world beyond race by going through race A message well worth considering in an age of color blindness

Learning in Adulthood Roberta S. Sigel, 1989 In the wake of World War II the issues of political stability in general and the survival of stable democracies in particular captured the attention of American political scientists An inevitable offshoot of this interest was the study of political behavior how it is acquired and how and why it persists In its early stages work on political socialization focused exclusively on childhood and adolescence as if the learning process ends when adulthood begins Only recently has adult socialization emerged as a legitimate field of study within political science In Political Learning in Adulthood social scientists for the first time examine the changes in political outlook and behavior that take place during the adult years providing an invaluable overview of the problems theories and methodological approaches that characterize the field of political socialization They consider which political values remain constant and which are subject to change and they explore the ways in which both ordinary and extraordinary life events affect adults political worldviews Among specific topics considered are the effects of age and aging the relation between participation in the work force and the development and expression of political views continuity and change in the wake of revolutionary social and political movements and the effects of such traumatic and life threatening situations as war and terrorist activity Imagining the
