Documenting and Revitalizing Austronesian Languages Victoria Rau,D. Victoria Rau,Margaret J. communities and it highlights the roles that local actors can and do play in the revitalization process. The Art of Revitalization takes two Chicago neighborhoods, Englewood and North Lawndale, as case studies. Zielenbach discusses them in the context of racial change and urban decay in Chicago since World War II. The account of the changing neighborhoods is fascinating and clear, and the strength of the author's portrayal of Chicago's transformation sets the stage for his detailed analysis.

Religious Revitalization Among the Kiowas Benjamin R. Kracht, 2018-04-01 Framed by theories of syncretism and revitalization, Religious Revitalization among the Kiowas examines changes in Kiowa belief and ritual in the final decades of the nineteenth century. During the height of the horse and bison culture, Kiowa beliefs were founded in the notion of daudau, a force permeating the universe that was accessible through vision quests. Following the end of the Southern Plains wars in 1875, the Kiowas were confined within the boundaries of the Kiowa Comanche Apache Plains Apache Reservation. As wards of the government, they witnessed the extinction of the bison herds, which led to the collapse of the Sun Dance. By 1890, though prophet movements in the 1880s had failed to restore the bison, other religions emerged to fill the void left by the loss of the Sun Dance. Kiowas now sought daudau through the Ghost Dance, Christianity, and the Peyote religion. Religious Revitalization among the Kiowas examines the historical and sociocultural conditions that spawned the new religions that arrived in Kiowa country at the end of the nineteenth century, as well as Native and non-Native reactions to them. A thorough examination of these sources reveals how resilient and adaptable the Kiowas were in the face of cultural genocide between 1883 and 1933. Although the prophet movements and the Ghost Dance were short-lived, Christianity and the Native American Church have persevered into the twenty-first century. Benjamin R. Kracht shows how Kiowa traditions and spirituality were amalgamated into the new religions, creating a distinctive Kiowa identity.

A Genealogy of Dissent: Southern Baptist Protest in the Twentieth Century David Stricklin, Between the Civil War and the turn of the last century, Southern Baptists gained prominence in the religious life of the South. As their power increased, they became defenders of the racial, political, social, and economic status quo. By the beginning of this century, however, a feisty tradition of dissent began to appear in Southern Baptist life as criticism of the center increased from both the left and the right. The popular belief in a doctrine of once saved, always saved, led progressive Baptists to claim that moderates, once saved, did not address the serious social and political problems that faced many in the South. These Baptist dissenters claimed that they could not be at ease in Zion. Led by the radical Walter Nathan Johnson in the 1920s and 1930s, progressive Baptists produced civil rights advocates, labor organizers, women's rights advocates, and proponents of disarmament and abolition of capital punishment. They challenged some of the most fundamental aspects of southern society and of Baptist ecclesiastical structure and practice. For their efforts and beliefs, many of these men and women suffered as they lost jobs, experienced physical danger and injury, and endured character assassination. In A Genealogy of Dissent, David Stricklin traces the history of these progressive Baptists and their descendants throughout the twentieth century and shows how they created an active culture of protest within a highly traditional society.

Women and Twentieth-century Protestantism Margaret Lamberts Bendroth, Virginia Lieson Brereton, 2002

Contributors consider the emergence of Latina Pentecostal clergy in the United States and the success of the Women's Missionary Union of the Southern Baptist Convention in remaining independent of male dominated denominational structures. Among other topics the authors discuss Chinese immigrant women who embraced the relative freedom offered by Protestant religion, African American women who assumed religious authority through their historical writing and the struggles of women faith healers in defining their role amid medical and evangelical professionalism. Recreating Utopia in the Desert Hans A. Baer, 1988-01-01. Recreating Utopia in the Desert: A Sectarian Challenge to Modern Mormonism is the account of a millenarian sect officially known as the Aaronic Order, one of the main splinter groups of the Mormon Church. Their story tells us much about the social tensions particularly along class lines that have emerged in Mormonism. The Aaronic Order or Levites emerged as the Mormon Church evolved from a religious utopia in the Midwest to a near nation state in the Intermountain West to finally an international theocratic corporation. Drawing upon the concept of revitalization movements, the Levite sect is viewed as an attempt by working class Mormons to resurrect the communitarian ideals they perceived as characteristic of earlier nineteenth century Mormonism. From their beginnings in the Depression, the Levites have developed a series of cooperative and communal ventures in Utah based upon the revelations of Maurice Glendenning. We see in the Levites the seemingly inevitable processes of institutionalization and fission characterizing revitalization movements that survive. By explaining the impetus for the development of sectarian groups such as the Levites, the author offers important insights for the discussion of religious communitarianism and schismatic movements in contemporary religion. Schools and Urban Revitalization Kelly L. Patterson, Robert Mark Silverman, 2013-10-08. New research in community development shows that institutions matter. Where the private sector disinvests from the inner city, public and nonprofit institutions step in and provide engines to economic revitalization and promote greater equity in society. Schools and Urban Revitalization collects emerging research in this field with special interest in new school neighborhood partnerships that lead today's most vibrant policy responses to urban blight. The Concise New Makers of Modern Culture Justin Wintle, 2008-11-28.
