Understanding the Macro-Financial Effects of Household Debt: A Global Perspective Adrian Alter, Alan Xiaochen Feng, Nico Valckx, 2018-04-06 We confirm the negative relationship between household debt and future GDP growth documented in Mian Sufi and Verner 2017 for a wider set of countries over the period 1950-2016. Three mutually reinforcing mechanisms help explain this relationship: First, debt overhang impairs household consumption when negative shocks hit. Second, increases in household debt heighten the probability of future banking crises which significantly disrupts financial intermediation. Third, crash risk may be systematically neglected due to investors' overoptimistic expectations associated with household debt booms. In addition, several institutional factors such as flexible exchange rates, higher financial development and inclusion are found to mitigate this impact. Finally, the tradeoff between financial inclusion and stability nuances downside risks to growth.

and interests they perceive to be threatened by the entrepreneurs and whether it is the entrepreneurs or the antipreneurs who enjoy greater inherent advantages This text will therefore be of interest to scholars and students of International Relations International Law Political Science Sociology and History
