Public participation and planners' blight: with a foreword by A.H. Halsey Norman Dennis, Politics, Planning and the City Michael Goldsmith, 2012-12-06
Politics, Planning and the City is designed to introduce the complex political processes and problems of the modern city. The author begins by setting the theoretical context and discusses models of democracy, power and the nature of policy. Next, he examines change and the city by focusing on actual decision-making. Three major policy areas affecting the city: housing, planning and the social services are then reviewed and the post-war experiences analysed. The author concludes by discussing the consequences intended and unintended for the city and asks whether city governments can cope with the future. This book was first published in 1980.

Planning and Knowledge Mike Raco, Federico Savini, 2019-07-10
This book uses an international perspective and draws on a wide range of new conceptual and empirical material to examine the sources of conflict and cooperation within the different landscapes of knowledge that are driving contemporary urban change. Based on the premise that historically established systems of regulation and control are being subject to unprecedented pressures, scholars critically reflect on the changing role of planning and governance in sustainable urban development, looking at how a shift in power relations between expert and local cultures in western planning processes has blurred the traditional boundaries between public, private and voluntary sectors.

The Literature and Study of Urban and Regional Planning Brenda White, 2024-02-29
First published in 1974, The Literature and Study of Urban and Regional Planning discusses the processes of spatial planning and the range of subject knowledge which is required to contribute to it. It describes the physical forms in which the literature relating to spatial planning is usually presented and the ways in which this literature is made available in different types of organization. The author gives details of the most useful libraries whose facilities are available to students and of the research which is being undertaken into the principal problems of planning information. The second part of the book consists of a subject bibliography divided for ease of reference into twenty-six sections, each concerned with a component part of spatial planning and containing annotated references to books, official publications, developmental plans, legislation and other material. This book will be of interest to students of sociology and urban studies.

Authentic Reconstruction John Bold, Peter Larkham, Robert Pickard, 2017-12-14
Notions of authenticity lie at the heart of many questions about heritage and identity in the built environment. These questions are most pertinent when

buildings have been destroyed in disaster or war and the built fabric is being reconstructed to reinstate traditional or historic appearances in place of what was lost Authentic Reconstruction examines this idea of reconstruction using it as a prompt to examine a range of deeper issues on heritage and the built environment From post WWII reconstruction programmes through to the rebuilding of historic cultural landscapes lost in natural disasters this collection of essays by heritage specialists provides a wide range of case studies and discussions Each presents responses to crises and lessons learned in order to extrapolate general guidelines for future actions by politicians architects and planners in reconstructing buildings The book also looks beyond disaster and war noting how authenticity bears on political intentions and image building exploring how reconstruction is used to tell a political or historical story so conditioning the ways in which the built environment is perceived and appreciated by its users This is not just about the buildings as bricks and mortar but about perceptions of identity and the social and historical values which buildings and spaces embody for a richly diverse population This book will be valuable to all who are concerned with heritage as practitioners or consumers particularly those concerned with reconstruction and the creation of authentic places and experiences architects architectural historians town planners preservationists conservationists and those involved in heritage management and material culture Routledge Revivals: The Politics of Urban Change (1979) David McKay, Andrew Cox, 2016-09-19 First published in 1979 this book examines key planning policy areas such as land use planning land values housing and slum clearance urban transport industrial and regional economic location policies and policies inner city policies to explain why particular policies have been adopted at particular times assessing the role of political parties bureaucrats and interests in setting the national policy agenda Policy is also placed in the broader economic and social context and the question of whether given contemporaneous constraints a coherent national urban policy is possible is examined Its focus on political parties role in urban change at the start of Thatcher era upheavals makes this book especially valuable to students of urban sociology and the history of planning

Planning At The Crossroads James Simmie, 2003-09-02 Through a detailed analysis of studies of the effects of planning comparing low levels of urban containment in California with much higher levels in the UK Some comparative insights are also drawn from the pre conflict Yugoslavian planning system The analysis shows that many of the serious criticisms of planning are valid and leads to the conclusion that some sacred cows notably green belts should be abandoned This distinctive text is of use to students researchers and professionals in planning geography and urban studies Town Planning into the 21st Century Andy Blowers, Bob Evans, 2013-01-11 Provides a series of insights into the planning process introduces the key issues currently facing planning and offers prescriptions for the changes required as we move into the next millenium Leading experts outline the changing context for land use and environmental policy in Britain and explain why the existing processes and profession of town planning are likely to be unable to provide satisfactory policy responses in the future Key themes debated include widening the remit of traditional town planning giving land and buildings

a community value acting for people rather than simply for the market promoting an equalization of environmental conditions and discouragement of motorization the need to anticipate long term global trends at the local and national level

G. Griffith, 2022-03-29 First published in 1976 From Policy to Administration is not the conventional Festschrift written by many hands on many unrelated subjects rather it is a tight collection of essays conceived and written around a unified theme From one point of view policy and administration are at two opposite ends of the governmental spectrum but at the same time both are aspects of almost every single government activity and the essays in this book set out to reflect this apparent paradox Dr Jones finds symptoms of it at the administrative heart of the policy making machine while Professor Friedrich looks at the nature of that machine and its relation to democratic forms Four central essays by Professors Bernard Crick Peter Self John Mackintosh and Mr Sharpe link policy making and administration to the controversies about participation decentralisation and devolution Mr Foster considers the public corporation as a dynamic instrument concerned with the problem of efficiency The book concludes with essays by Professors Mitchell and Griffith on the involvement of legal processes in the structure and functioning of policy and administration The book does not attempt to cover all of William Robson s interests It is a mark of the versatility of his genius that no book could do that and remain unified This book will be of interest to scholars and researchers of public administration and political studies
