Public Service Labor Relations In A Democratic South Africa:

Public Service Labour Relations in a Democratic South Africa Glenn Adler, 2000 The democratic South Africa boasts some of the most advanced labour legislation in the world allowing public service workers to enjoy trade union and collective bargaining rights for the first time in the country's history These developments set the stage for public servants to bring their conditions of service into line with the industrial relations best practice in the private sector The chapters in this volume are based on critical assessments of contemporary developments in the public service drawn from original research by a range of contributors including public servants academics and independent researchers all specialists in this field The problem of addressing workers demands and concerns about job security transforming the state into a more effective agent of development and redressing the legacies of discrimination and authoritarianism is likely to generate considerable conflict between workers and managers and between different groups of workers made international headlines in August 1999 demonstrated that labour management strife in the public service is not a narrow industrial relations issue of interest to the parties alone The outcomes of these conflicts will have crucial and long lasting consequences for the transformation of the state as an institution and therefore for the government's ability to promote fiscal integrity economic development and service delivery The contributions thus combine depth of research and critical appraisal with privileged insight into recent policy developments

South African Human Resource Management for the Public Sector Barney Erasmus, 2005 This report discusses important themes in the field of human resource management for the public sector including managing employee relations strategizing and planning human resources departments and selecting employees within the equal employment opportunity guidelines Current legislation of the field is discussed and new theories on local and international applied research are explored

Governance in the New South Africa Guy C. Z. Mhone, Omano Edigheji, 2003 The major challenges confronting South Africa since the advent of non racial multiparty democracy have been the need to promote democratic governance economic growth global competitiveness and to improve the standard of living of its people especially the previously disadvantaged majority Black population These challenges have coincided with the ascendancy of globalisation with its attendant social economic and political imperatives all of which have consequences for governance and development at the national level not least in emerging economies like South Africa This important book assesses the implications of global imperatives for the nature capacity character and scope of democratic governance and the pursuit of equitable development in the new South Africa A major conclusion is that the implementation of domestic economic reforms predicated on market fundamentalism with its dominant logic and paradigm of globalisation and economic management is incompatible and irreconcilable with the quest for democratic governance and equitable development The contributors contend that such an approach reproduces a substantively undemocratic and inequitable society Governance in the New South Africa concludes by offering some considerations related to how substantive democracy and equitable development may be promoted in South

Africa on the basis of democratic governance and developmentalism
