Dealing with consumer uncertainty Karin Bergmann, 2013-03-14 My studies on the uncertain consumer began with a research project conducted by the Dr Rainer Wild Stiftung Foundation for healthy nutrition on the negative image of processed food Ever since then I have been asked whether or not growing consumer uncertainty is linked to information policies of the food sector and if so how Intensive three year research showed that industrial methods of food production are predestined to result in wayward fears and worry over its healthiness This is due to the fact that during the process of industrialisation we gradually passed responsibility for the quality of food into the producers hands This in turn has resulted in information gaps that we as the addressees of diverse often overwhelming and contradictory information supplied by varying sources feel today We exchanged the daily search for food for the daily search for information long ago Consequently a practical concept for public relations stands at the end of my search into the uncertain consumer It accounts for uncertainty regarding processed food as a point of reference for public relations targeted towards various groups Public relations oriented towards the future calls for the sharing of expert information with all interested consumers It is the goal of businesses to actively build up trust among the consumers in order to be prepared for new causes for uncertainty appearing periodically To this day the issue of consumer uncertainty has not lost its topicality
