Pumpkin Shell:

In a Pumpkin Shell Jennifer Storey Gillis,1992 Provides instructions for a variety of projects involving pumpkins including growing them using them in recipes and making things out of them Pumpkin Cindy Ott,2012-12-01 Why do so many Americans drive for miles each autumn to buy a vegetable that they are unlikely to eat While most people around the world eat pumpkin throughout the year North Americans reserve it for holiday pies and other desserts that celebrate the harvest season and the rural past They decorate their houses with pumpkins every autumn and welcome Halloween trick or treaters with elaborately carved jack o lanterns Towns hold annual pumpkin festivals featuring giant pumpkins and carving contests even though few have any historic ties to the crop In this fascinating cultural and natural history Cindy Ott tells the story of the pumpkin Beginning with the myth of the first Thanksgiving she shows how Americans have used the pumpkin to fulfill their desire to maintain connections to nature and to the family farm of lore and ironically how small farms and rural communities have been revitalized in the process And while the pumpkin has inspired American myths and traditions the pumpkin itself has changed because of the ways people have perceived valued and used it Pumpkin is a smart and lively study of the deep meanings hidden in common things and their power to make profound changes in the world around us these seemingly sweet songs What I discovered was a haunting web of history tales of plague and suffering murder and rebellion betrayal and survival all hidden in plain sight These rhymes meant for children are veiled echoes of humanity's darkest moments How could something as innocent as London Bridge is Falling Down carry the weight of destruction and death Why does Ring Around the Rosie feel eerily like a whispered funeral dirge And who or what really inspired The Muffin Man With each page I peeled back the layers of folklore and unearthed stories of political intrigue forbidden faiths brutal punishment and untold tragedy This isn't just a collection of familiar tunes it's a descent into the shadowy corners of history where nursery rhymes served as coded messages laments and warnings They speak of kings toppled children exploited families torn apart and lives consumed by fire famine and fear These songs were never as innocent as they seemed If you think you know nursery rhymes think again Whispers in the Cradle will shatter everything you thought you understood about the melodies of your childhood Some truths are too dark to stay buried and some whispers too haunting to ignore What secrets have we been singing all along

Kelly,2007-01-01 It was in the spring of the year 1241 that rumors began to travel along the highroad from Kiev in the land of Rus that the Tartars of the East were again upon the march Men trembled when they heard that news and mothers held their children close to their breasts for the name Tartar was one that froze folks blood in their veins As the weeks went on the rumors grew thicker and there began to come through to Poland our land of the fields the news that the country lands of the Ukraine were ablaze Then it was heard that Kiev had fallen then Lvov the city of the Lion and now there was naught between the savage band of warriors and the fair city of Krakow save a few peaceful villages and fertile fields The Tartars came through the world like a horde of wild beasts They left not one thing alive nor one green blade of wheat standing They were short dark men of shaggy beards and long hair twisted into little braids and they rode on small horses which they covered with trophies that they had gained in war Brave they were as lions courageous they were as great dogs but they had hearts of stone and knew not mercy nor pity nor tenderness nor God On their horses they carried round shields of leather and iron and long spears often trailed from their saddles About their shoulders and thighs they wore skins of animals Some decorated their ears with golden rings here and there one wore a gold ring in the nose When they traveled the dust rose high into the sky from beneath the hoofs of their little horses and the thunder of the hoofbeats could be heard many miles away They were so numerous that it took days for the whole horde to pass any one given point and for miles behind the army itself rumbled carts bearing slaves provisions and booty usually gold Before them went always a long desperate procession of country people driven from their humble homes by the news of the coming terror they had already said farewell to the cottages where they lived the parting from which was almost as bitter as death So it has always been in time of war that the innocent suffer most these poor helpless peasants with their carts and horses and geese and sheep trudging along through the dust to escape if God so willed the terrible fate which would befall them were they left behind There were old people in that procession too feeble to be stirring even about a house mothers nursing children women weak with sickness and men broken hearted at the loss of all that a lifetime of labor had brought Children dragged themselves wearily along beside them often bearing their pets in their arms To this company Krakow opened her gates and prepared for defense Many of the nobility and rich citizens had in the meantime fled to the west or taken refuge in monasteries far to the north The brothers of the monastery at Zvierzyniec a short distance outside the city took in all the refugees that the building could accommodate and then prepared to stand siege But the great weary terror mad mob that had fled ahead of the band of Tartars was content enough to make the city itself its destination And once within its walls all turned their faces toward the south For there in the south of the city towering on its rocky hill high over the Vistula River was the great irregular turreted mass that was the Wawel the fortress and castle of the kings of Poland from the time of Krakus the legend king and the home of the dukes and nobles who formed the king s court Thanksgiving School Programs Ann Gladys Lloyd,1927
