Hitchcock Richard Henry Stoddard,1903 Realizing Metaphors David M. Bethea,1998-11-24 Readers often have regarded with curiosity the creative life of the poet In this passionate and authoritative new study David Bethea illustrates the relation between the art and life of nineteenth century poet Alexander Pushkin the central figure in Russian thought and culture Bethea shows how Pushkin on the eve of his two hundredth birthday still speaks to our time He indicates how we as modern readers might realize that is not only grasp cognitively but feel experience the promethean metaphors central to the poet s intensely sculpted life The Pushkin who emerges from Bethea s portrait is one who long unknown to English language readers closely resembles the original both psychologically and artistically Bethea begins by addressing the influential thinkers Freud Bloom Jakobson and Lotman to show that their premises do not by themselves adequately account for Pushkin s psychology of creation or his version of the life of the poet He then proposes his own versatile model of reading and goes on to sketches the tangled connections between Pushkin and his great compatriot the eighteenth century poet Gavrila Derzhavin Pushkin simultaneously advanced toward and retreated from the shadow of his predecessor as he created notions of poet in history and inspiration new for his time and absolutely determinative for the tradition thereafter Records and Recollections of St. Cuthbert's College, Ushaw Old alumnus,1889 *Catalogue of the Printed Books in the Library of the Society of Writers to H.M.
