Smith, 2023-05-25 Combining theology politics and historical analysis theorizes what might be at stake ethically for America's current political life Andrew Taylor Journal of American History Conventional wisdom holds that attempts to combine religion and politics will produce unlimited violence Concepts such as jihad crusade and sacrifice need to be rooted out the story goes for the sake of more bounded and secular understandings of violence Ted Smith upends this dominant view drawing on Walter Benjamin Giorgio Agamben and others to trace the ways that seemingly secular politics produce their own forms of violence without limit He brings this argument to life and digs deep into the American political imagination through a string of surprising reflections on John Brown the nineteenth century abolitionist who took up arms against the state in the name of a higher law Smith argues that the key to limiting violence is not its separation from religion but its connection to richer and more critical modes of religious reflection Weird John Brown develops a negative political theology that challenges both the ways we remember American history and the ways we think about the nature meaning and exercise of violence Powerfully combines theology and political theory Recommended R J Meagher Choice Smith illustrates how an ethical and philosophical reading of history can help us to better understand the world we live in Franklin Rausch New Books in Christian Studies A brilliantly original and compelling book John Stauffer Harvard University A very sophisticated philosophical and theological reflection on John Brown and the question of divine violence Willie James Jennings Duke University The Independent William Livingston, 1910 The Independent Leonard Bacon, Joseph Parrish Thompson, Richard Salter Storrs, Joshua Leavitt, Henry Ward Beecher, Theodore Tilton, Henry Chandler Bowen, William Hayes Ward, Hamilton Holt, Fabian Franklin, Harold de Wolf Fuller, Christian Archibald Herter, 1910 Metropolitan Pulpit and Homiletic Monthly, 1910 Preacher and Homiletic Monthly, 1910 The Homiletic Review, 1910 Homiletic Review, 1910 The Struggle for the Soul of Journalism Ronald R. Rodgers, 2018-04-30 In this study Ronald R Rodgers examines several narratives involving religion's historical influence on the news ethic of journalism its decades long opposition to the Sunday newspaper as a vehicle of modernity that challenged the tradition of the Sabbath the parallel attempt to create an advertising driven Christian daily newspaper and the ways in which religion especially the powerful Social Gospel movement pressured the press to become a moral agent The digital disruption of the news media today has provoked a similar search for a news ethic that reflects a new era for instance in the debate about jettisoning the substrate of contemporary mainstream journalism objectivity But Rodgers argues before we begin to transform journalism's present news ethic we need to understand its foundation and formation in the past The Atlantic Monthly, 1909
