Communicating Mobility and Technology Ehren Helmut Pflugfelder, 2016-07-07 Winner of the 2018 CCCC Technical and Scientific Communication Award in the category of Best Book in Technical or Scientific Communication Responding to the effects of human mobility and crises such as depleting oil supplies Ehren Helmut Pflugfelder turns specifically to automobility a term used to describe the kinds of mobility afforded by autonomous automobile based movement technologies and their ramifications Thus far few studies in technical communication have explored the development of mobility technologies the immense power that highly structured environmentally significant systems have in the world or the human machine interactions that take place in such activities Applying kinaesthetic rhetoric a rhetoric that is sensitive to and developed from the mobile material context of these technologies Pflugfelder looks at transportation projects such as electric taxi cabs from the turn of the century to modern day open source vehicle projects and a large case study of an autonomous electric pod car network that ultimately failed Kinaesthetic rhetoric illuminates how mobility technologies have always been persuasive wherever and whenever linguistic symbol systems and material interactions enroll us often unconsciously into regimes of movement and ways of experiencing the world As Pflugfelder shows mobility technologies involve networks of sustained arguments that are as durable as the bonds between the actors in their networks

Composition In The University Sharon Crowley,1998-05-15 Composition in the University examines the required introductory course in composition within American colleges and universities According to Sharon Crowley the required composition course has never been conceived in the way that other introductory courses have been as an introduction to the principles and practices of a field of study Rather it has been constructed throughout much of its history as a site from which larger educational and ideological agendas could be advanced and such agendas have not always served the interests of students or teachers even though they are usually touted as programs of study that students need If there is a master narrative of the history of composition it is told in the institutional attitude that has governed administration design and staffing of the course from its beginnings the attitude that the universal requirement is in place in order to construct docile academic subjects Crowley argues that due to its association with literary studies in English departments composition instruction has been inappropriately influenced by humanist pedagogy and that modern humanism is not a satisfactory rationale for the study of writing She examines historical attempts to reconfigure the required course in nonhumanist terms such as the advent of communications studies during the 1940s Crowley devotes two essays to this phenomenon concentrating on the furor caused by the adoption of a communications program at the University of Iowa Composition in the University concludes with a pair of essays that argue against maintenance of the universal requirement In the last of these Crowley envisions possible nonhumanist rationales that could be developed for vertical curricula in writing instruction were the universal requirement not in place Crowley presents her findings in a series of essays because she feels the history of the required composition course cannot easily be understood as a coherent narrative since understandings of the purpose of the required course have altered rapidly from decade to decade sometimes in shockingly sudden and erratic fashion The essays in this book are informed by Crowley s long career of teaching composition administering a composition program and training teachers of the required introductory course The book also draw on experience she gained while working with committees formed by the Conference on College Composition and Communication toward implementation of the Wyoming Resolution an attempt to better the working conditions of post secondary teachers of writing

Designing for Situated Knowledge Transformation Nina Bonderup Dohn, Stig Børsen Hansen, Jens Jørgen Hansen, 2019-11-27 How can knowledge developed in one context be put to use in other contexts How can students learn to do so How can educators design for learning this These are fundamental challenges to many forms of education The challenges are amplified in contemporary society where people traverse many different contexts and where contexts themselves are continuously changing Designing for Situated Knowledge Transformation provides a structured answer to these questions through an investigation of the theoretical empirical methodological and pedagogical design aspects which they involve Raising profound questions about the nature of knowledge of situativity and of transfer transformation and resituation it calls for and provides extended empirical studies of the forms of transformation that knowledge undergoes when people find themselves in new contexts while relying on existing knowledge Considering many avenues of practical application and insight Designing for Situated Knowledge Transformation develops a coherent framework for developing learning designs for knowledge transformation that is crucial in today's educational settings Genre in the Classroom

Ann M. Johns, 2001-11-01 For the first time the major theoretical and pedagogical approaches to genre and related issues of social construction are presented in a single volume providing an overview of the state of the art for practitioners in applied linguistics ESL EFL pedagogies rhetoric and composition studies around the world Unlike volumes that present one theoretical stance this book attempts to give equal time to all theoretical and pedagogical camps Included are chapters by authors from the Sydney School the New Rhetoric and English for Specific Purposes as well as contributions from other practitioners who pose questions that cross theoretical lines Genre in the Classroom includes all of the major theoretical views of genre that influence pedagogical practice takes an international approach drawing from all parts of the world in which genre theory has been applied in the classroom Australia Canada Hong Kong the Middle East the United States features contributors who are all both theorists and classroom practitioners lending credibility and authenticity to the arguments combines theory and practice in every chapter showing how particular theoretical views influence classroom practice grounds pedagogical practices in their own regional and theoretical histories openly discusses problems and questions that genre theory raises and presents some of the solutions suggested and offers a concluding chapter that argues for two macro genres and with responses to this argument by noted genre theorists from three theoretical camps

Composition, Rhetoric, and Disciplinarity Rita Malenczyk, Susan Miller-Cochran, Elizabeth Wardle, Kathleen Yancey, 2018-04-02 Edited by four nationally recognized leaders of composition scholarship Composition Rhetoric and Disciplinarity asks a fundamental question can Composition and Rhetoric as a discipline continue its historical commitment to pedagogy without sacrificing equal attention to other areas such as research and theory In response contributors to the volume address disagreements about what it means to be called a discipline rather than a profession or a field elucidate tensions over the defined breadth of Composition and Rhetoric and consider the roles of research and responsibility as Composition and Rhetoric shifts from field to discipline Outlining a field with a complex and unusual formation story Composition Rhetoric and Disciplinarity employs several lenses for understanding disciplinarity theory history labor and pedagogy and for teasing out the implications of disciplinarity for students faculty institutions and Composition and Rhetoric itself Collectively the chapters speak to the intellectual and embodied history leading to this point to questions about how disciplinarity is and might be understood especially with regard to Composition and Rhetoric to the curricular conceptual labor and other sites of tension inherent in thinking about Composition and Rhetoric as a discipline and to the implications of Composition and Rhetoric s disciplinarity for the future Contributors Linda Adler Kassner Elizabeth H Boquet Christiane Donahue Whitney Douglas Doug Downs Heidi Estrem Kristine Hansen Doug Hesse Sandra Jamieson Neal Lerner Jennifer Helene Maher Barry Maid Jaime Armin Mej a Carolyn R Miller Kelly Myers Gwendolynne Reid Liane Robertson Rochelle Rodrigo Dawn Shepherd Kara Taczak Genre Studies Around the Globe Natasha Artemeva, 2016-03-13 Genre Studies around the Globe Beyond the Three Traditions exemplifies rich and vibrant international scholarship in the area of non literary genre studies in the early 21st century Based on the Genre 2012 conference held in Ottawa Canada the volume brings under one cover the three Anglophone traditions English for Specific Purposes the Sydney School Rhetorical Genre Studies and the approaches to genre studies developed in other national linguistic and cultural contexts Brazilian Chilean and European The volume contributors investigate a variety of genres ranging from written to spoken to multimodal and discuss issues central to the field of genre studies genre conceptualization in different traditions its theoretical underpinnings the goals of genre research and pedagogical implications of genre studies This collection is addressed to researchers teachers and students of genre who wish to familiarize themselves with current international developments in genre studies A Rhetoric of Reflection Kathleen Yancey, 2016-08-15 Reflection in writing studies is now entering a third generation Dating from the 1970s the first generation of reflection focused on identifying and describing internal cognitive processes assumed to be part of composing The second generation operating in both classroom and assessment scenes in the 1990s developed mechanisms for externalizing reflection making it visible and thus explicitly available to help writers Now a third generation of work in reflection is emerging As mapped by the contributors to A Rhetoric of Reflection this iteration of research and practice is taking up new questions in new sites of activity and with new theories It comprises attention to transfer of writing knowledge and practice teaching and assessment portfolios linguistic and cultural difference and various media including print and digital It conceptualizes conversation as a primary reflective medium both inside and outside the classroom and for individuals and collectives and articulates the role that different genres play in hosting reflection Perhaps most important in the work of this third generation is the identification and increasing appreciation of the epistemic value of reflection of its ability to help make new meanings and of its rhetorical power for both scholars and students Contributors Anne Beaufort Kara Taczak Liane Robertson Michael Neal Heather Ostman Cathy Leaker Bruce Horner Asao B Inoue Tyler Richmond J Elizabeth Clark Naomi Silver Christina Russell McDonald Pamela Flash Kevin Roozen Jeff Sommers Doug Hesse Securing a Place for Reading in Composition Ellen C. Carillo, 2015-01-15 Securing a Place for Reading in Composition addresses the dissonance between the need to prepare students to read not just write complex texts and the lack of recent scholarship on reading writing connections Author Ellen C Carillo argues that including attention to reading practices is crucial for developing more comprehensive literacy pedagogies Students who can read actively and reflectively will be able to work successfully with the range of complex texts they will encounter throughout their post secondary academic careers and beyond Considering the role of reading within composition from both historical and contemporary perspectives Carillo makes recommendations for the productive integration of reading instruction into first year writing courses She details a mindful reading framework wherein instructors help students cultivate a repertoire of approaches upon which they consistently reflect as they apply them to various texts This metacognitive frame allows students to become knowledgeable and deliberate about how they read and gives them the opportunity to develop the skills useful for moving among reading approaches in mindful ways thus preparing them to actively and productively read in courses and contexts outside first year composition Securing a Place for Reading in Composition also explores how the field of composition might begin to effectively address reading including conducting research on reading revising outcome statements and revisiting the core courses in graduate programs It will be of great interest to writing program administrators and other compositionists and their graduate students English for Academic and Specific Purposes in the Classroom Rosmawati, Marjolijn Verspoor, 2025-05-22 This volume showcases curriculum designs instructional strategies classroom challenges and assessment practices in courses around the world introduced to meet the demand for English language skills for academic EAP or specific purposes ESP in higher education settings Particularly in English as a medium of instruction EMI institutions the courses are frequently part of the curriculum regardless of discipline or specialization Given the prevalence of such courses it is important to understand how they are implemented Many theories and models have inspired and underpinned these courses including genre based instruction Writing in the Disciplines Systemic Functional Linguistics the academic literacies model and translanguaging Often these are combined with various pedagogical approaches such as constructive alignment flipped learning learning oriented assessment Galperin s theory of Systematic Formation of Mental Actions SFMA the study skills models pedagogical cultural historical activity theory and the TESOL teaching learning cycle This book showcases how these are implemented in EAP ESP classrooms This volume gives a voice to instructors whose experience in real life classrooms is invaluable to inform research and policies as well as to refine theories It serves as a venue for conversation among the community of practitioners and researchers of applied linguistics and language teaching

Style and the Future of Composition Studies Paul Butler, Brian Ray, Star Medzerian Vanguri, 2020-11-02 Style and the Future of Composition Studies explores style s potential for informing how students are taught to write well and its power as a tool for analyzing the language and discourse practices of writers and speakers in a range of contexts Many college writing teachers operate under the belief that style still refers primarily to the kinds of issues discussed in Strunk and White s popular but outdated book The Elements of Style This work not only challenges this view but also offers theories and pedagogies from diverse perspectives that help teachers and students develop strategic habits and mindsets to negotiate languages genres and discourse conventions The chapters explore the ways in which style directly affects and is affected by multiple sources of shifting disciplinary inquiry contributing new insights by drawing on research in cultural studies sociolinguistics discourse studies translanguaging and writing across the curriculum as well as new approaches to classical rhetorical theory The reemergence of stylistic inquiry can be used dynamically to produce new insights not only about emerging disciplinary interests but also about the study of style as a kind of language in and of itself Style and the Future of Composition Studies demonstrates that style deserves to be a central focus of writing teaching More than just the next style collection the book advocates for style s larger prominence in composition discussions generally It will be of interest to a broad range of students and scholars of writing studies as well as a wider set of readers in academe Contributors Cydney Alexis Laura Aull Anthony Box Jimmy Butts Mike Duncan William FitzGerald Melissa Goldthwaite Eric House TR Johnson Almas Khan Zak Lancaster Eric Leake Andrea Olinger Thomas Pace Jarron Slater Jonathan Udelson
