I. RED EYE DEFINITION

- Hyperemia or injection of the superficially visible vessels of the conjunctiva, episclera, or sclera
-  Can be caused by disorders of the different structures like the cornea, iris, ciliary bodies, and ocular adnexa
-  Chief complaint of eye redness can have multiple differential diagnosis based on:
 - History of the patient
 - Physical exam findings

II. ACUTE ANGLE CLOSURE GLAUCOMA

-   Previously discussed in "Chronic Vision Loss" lecture
-  Acute angle closure glaucoma is actually the one causing the eye redness when a patient has AACG
-  Presentations:
 - Suggestive of corneal edema are: ( figure 2):
 - Irregular corneal reflection
 - Hazy cornea
 - Usually the pupil is dilated
 - Iris is anteriorly displaced
 - Shallowing of the anterior chamber ( figure 2.1)
-  Figure 2.2 shows a photo of a gonioscopy
 -  This shows a complete angle closure glaucoma (Shaffer grade 0 or closed angle)
- Usually we also:
 - Check the intraocular pressure of these patients !
 - Do gonioscopy !
 - Check the optic nerve !
- Findings:
 - Elevated intraocular pressure
- Management:
 - Depends on severity:
 - How high is the intraocular pressure?
 - What will be the conditions of the optic nerve or its function?
 - Conservative treatment:
 - Give topical medications or;
 - Systemic anti-glaucoma medications ex. acetazolamide or;
 -  Mannitol - used to decrease pressure in the eyes, as in glaucoma, and to lower increased intracranial pressure
 - Advanced glaucoma: laser procedures

The Ophthalmic Year Book, 1911 Ophthalmic Histopathology W.R. Lee, 2013-04-17 This book has been written to give guidance to histopathologists who are dealing with pathological specimens submitted by ophthalmologists, whether in a general pathology laboratory or in a specialist ophthalmic pathology laboratory. The bias has been given to the diseases encountered commonly in the routine service or in the autopsy room, and the intention is to show how to achieve the maximum information from each specimen. Conventional textbooks deal with diseases of the eye on an anatomical basis, but this is inappropriate for a histopathologist who is studying a globe in which the disease has varying effects on each of the individual tissue components. While unconventional, it seemed more acceptable to lay the book out under the relatively limited and broad headings which ophthalmologists use as indications for enucleation: trauma, tumour, endophthalmitis, vascular disease, etc. It also seemed logical to include a separate chapter on ocular disease as it is encountered in the autopsy room, and continuing the theme to consider a keratoplasty specimen and the topics of orbital biopsy and conjunctival biopsy in separate chapters In each pathological process whenever appropriate it was important to include the effects of modern therapeutic measures because this is one of the main features of interest for the clinician For the beginner an introductory chapter on the techniques and rationale of the preliminary systematic macroscopic examination of a globe has been included with an account of the supplementary techniques which are essential for an accurate diagnosis
