Reinventing Africa:

Re-Inventing Africa Ifi Amadiume,1997-12 This book reveals how conventional anthropology has consistently imposed European ideas of the natural nuclear family women as passive object and class differences on a continent with a long history of women with power doing things differently Amadiume argues for an end to anthropology and calls instead for a social history of Africa by Africans

Reinventing Africa Annie E. Coombes,1994-01-01 Between 1890 and 1918 British colonial expansion in Africa led to the removal of many valuable African artifacts that were subsequently brought to Britain and displayed This fascinating book analyses the ways in which African peoples and their material culture were represented in Britain at this time the justifications for imperial expansion implicit in the displays and the effects that this had on racial stereotyping and prejudice Annie Coombes argues that this activity had profound repercussions for the construction of a national identity within Britain itself the effects of which are still with us today

What Is Ailing Africa? — Practical Philosophy in Reinventing Africa Stephen Onyango Ouma,2024-06-11 Not only does this book detail the colonial experiences in Africa through what the author refers to as a social construct it also vehemently criticises modern African governments for their current corruption and maintenance of the continent s situation This book presents a two pronged analysis of Africa s predicament by looking at the duality of ethics and identity It tries to trace the problematic aspects of westernization and modernization within the contexts of neo colonialism and continued exploitation of Africa by external forces as well as the complicity of Africans themselves

Re-Inventing Africa's Development Jong-Dae Park,2018-12-31 This open access book analyses the development problems of sub Sahara Africa SSA from the eyes of a Korean diplomat with knowledge of the economic growth Korea has experienced in recent decades The author argues that Africa s development challenges are not due to a lack of resources but a lack of management presenting an alternative to the traditional view that Africa s problems are caused by a lack of leadership In exploring an approach based on mind set and nation building rather than unity which tends to promote individual or party interests rather than the broader country or national interests the author suggests new solutions for SSA s economic growth inspired by Korea s successful economic growth model much of which is focused on industrialisation This book will be of interest to researchers policymakers NGOs and governmental bodies in economics development and politics studying Africa s economic development and Korea s economic growth model

Reinventing Africa Ifi Amadiume,2001 The Africa Rising Discourse Tracy Tinga,2025-02-14 Over the last 25 years the Africa Rising discourse has been used to signify hope and promise for the continent marking a break from previous pessimistic portrayals This book critically examines that discourse analyzing recurring themes tropes metaphors and imagery It traces the evolution of the Africa Rising discourse and its connection with Afro pessimism providing valuable insights into how the continent is represented and understood The book explores the tensions contradictions and impacts of labeling Africa as rising Focusing on both local and global social actors as well as geopolitical influences it examines how these forces have shaped the discourse over time. Additionally, it highlights how African actors have engaged with and modified the discourse. For instance, the book assesses how in recent years digital media platforms have offered spaces for counternarratives that challenge stereotypical representations, leading to a more nuanced and diverse understanding of Africa's rise. This book offers valuable insights for researchers in Media and Communication Studies, Digital Media Journalism, African Studies, and Global Studies.

Africa's Development in the Twenty-first Century Kwadwo Konadu-Agyemang, Martin Kwamina Panford, 2006. Having been under colonial rule for the first half of the century, by 1965 all but a handful of African countries had regained their independence and were poised to take off into an era of development. However, Africa now suffers from the most acute form of underdevelopment anywhere in the world. Bringing together a broad selection of case studies covering a wide range of key issues, this volume provides a multidisciplinary exploration of Africa's development opportunities and challenges into the twenty-first century.

Africa Beyond Inventions Zubairu Wai, 2024-06-18. Africa Beyond Inventions is a rich critical engagement with the work of V. Y. Mudimbe. For decades, Mudimbe advanced a distinctive and erudite critical project that contributes to various bodies of knowledge in fields such as philosophy, anthropology, theology, postcolonial studies, decolonial theory, literary criticism, cultural studies, prose fiction, and African studies more broadly. A decade after his retirement and in the expansive spirit of his work, this volume stages a productive engagement with Mudimbe's remarkable and capacious body of work and the conceptual, epistemic, methodological, and ethical challenges it poses for the modern disciplines, specifically in relation to Africa. It situates Mudimbe in his proper place as a complex and significant thinker whose extraordinary contributions to various bodies of knowledge deserve to be recognised and better apprehended for what it has taught and continues to teach about the discursivity of the modern disciplines and the possibility of decolonising their colonising imprints in a moment that has been characterised as a decolonial turn. Through these engagements, the volume honours the intellectual legacy of one of Africa's most brilliant minds and makes his work accessible to a new generation of readers.

Africa's Buildings Itohan I. Osayimwese, 2025-09-23. A groundbreaking history of Africa's looted architectural heritage and a bold proposal for the repatriation of the continent's stolen cultural artifacts. Between the nineteenth century and today, colonial officials, collectors, and anthropologists dismembered African buildings and dispersed their parts to museums in Europe and the United States. Most of these artifacts were cataloged as ornamental art objects, which erased their intended functions, and the removal of these objects often had catastrophic consequences for the original structures. Africa's Buildings traces the history of the collection and distribution of African architectural fragments, documenting the brutality of the colonial regimes that looted Africa's buildings and addressing the ethical questions surrounding the display of these objects. Itohan Osayimwese ranges across the whole of Africa, from Egypt in the north to Zimbabwe in the south, and spanning the western, central, and eastern regions of the continent. She describes how collectors employed violent means to remove elements such as columns and door panels from buildings and how these methods differentiated architectural collecting from conventional collecting She shows how Western collectors mischaracterized building components as ornament erasing their architectural character and concealing the evidence of their theft Osayimwese discusses how the very act of displacing building parts like floor tiles and woven screen walls has resulted in a loss of knowledge about their original function and argues that because of these removals scholars have yet to fully grasp the variety and character of African architecture Richly illustrated Africa's Buildings uncovers the vast scale of cultural displacement perpetrated by the West and proposes a new role for museums in this history one in which they champion the repatriation of Africa's architectural heritage and restitution for African communities
