Rose Of Consciousness:

East-West Studies on the Problem of the Self Poola Tirupati Raju, 2012-12-06 The general characteristics of the decades after the last World War so far as the human situation goes include two phenomena these decades are marked by man's dissatisfaction with himself his confession of ignorance of himself his anxiety about his future and also his earnest search for the ground of his being which can give him a feeling of security with reference to his life here and hereafter they are also marked by man's pride about his achievements in science and technology a hope of a better life on earth and a faith in himself as capable of engineering the individual and society for realizing peace harmony and happiness for all men The contemporary thinking man is conscious of the predicament these two kinds of characteristics have created for him admits failures hopes for improvements and works for them In carrying out this work he has to and wants to know what human life is what the meaning and purpose of life are and why his struggles and achievements have not succeeded in giving every man a reasonable amount of comfort and happiness He has come to realize also that the accumulation of material comforts does not necessarily lead to happiness although happiness for man except for the monk fakir or sannyasi is not possible without material comforts Here we have the problem

Consciousness and Intentionality: Models and Modalities of Attribution D. Fisette, 2013-03-14 Philosophy of mind has been one of the most active fields in philosophy for the past three decades One of the most significant factors in the development of this discipline has been the emergence of cognitive science and the interest philosophers have taken in the empirical study of mind Another equally important factor has been the naturalism brought about by W V Quine His proposal that normative epistemology be replaced by empirical psychology marked a radical departure from the Fregean anti-psychologism and apriorism that had characterized much of the analytic tradition in philosophy But while Quine's program of naturalization called the attention of philosophers to empirical psychology his conception of psychology was inspired by an austere behaviorism which shunned the mentalism of intentional psychology in the Brentanian and phenomenological tradition Thus while agreeing with Brentano that the intentional idiom could not be reduced to that of the natural sciences Quine argued that it is of a piece with the indeterminacy of translation Most contributors of this collection share the cognitivist stance and believe that the mind needs to be explained rather than eliminated Three main questions are actually confronting current philosophers of mind each addressed by one or another of the contributors to the present collection

Consciousness Jeffrey Alan Gray, 2004 How does consciousness arise out of the functioning of the human brain This work presents an analysis of our conscious lives with profound implications for human nature

Brentano's Mind Mark Textor, 2017-08-11 Mark Textor presents a critical study of the work of Franz Brentano one of the most important thinkers of the nineteenth century His work has influenced analytic philosophers like Russell as well as phenomenologists like Husserl and Sartre and continues to shape debates in the philosophy of mind Brentano made intentionality a central topic in the philosophy of mind by proposing that directedness is the distinctive feature of the mental The first part of the book investigates Brentano's intentionalism as well as attempts to improve or develop it Textor argues that there is no plausible version of this doctrine and rejects it in favour of a mark of the mental proposed by Brentano's student Husserl mental phenomena have no appearances The second part of the book develops and defends Brentano's view about the structure of perceptual awareness Awareness of a mental activity and this mental activity are not distinct mental acts the first representing the second They are one and the same activity that has several objects Textor shows that Brentano held that intentionality is plural directedness is directedness on some objects and shows how the plural conception solves thorny problems The third part of the book is devoted to Brentano's view of pleasure and pain Textor draws out parallels between enjoying an activity and awareness of it and argues that enjoying an activity and the activity enjoyed are not distinct The final part of the book extends the plural view to the conscious mental life of a thinker at a time the unity of synchronic consciousness it is one mental act with many objects

The Constitution of Phenomenal Consciousness Steven M. Miller, 2015-06-15 Philosophers of mind have been arguing for decades about the nature of phenomenal consciousness and the relation between brain and mind More recently neuroscientists and philosophers of science have entered the discussion Which neural activities in the brain constitute phenomenal consciousness and how could science distinguish the neural correlates of consciousness from its neural constitution At what level of neural activity is consciousness constituted in the brain and what might be learned from well studied phenomena like binocular rivalry attention memory affect pain dreams and coma What should the science of consciousness want to know and what should explanation look like in this field How should the constitution relation be applied to brain and mind and are other relations like identity supervenience realization emergence and causation preferable

Building on a companion volume on the constitution of visual consciousness AiCR 90 this volume addresses these questions and related empirical and conceptual territory It brings together for the first time scientists and philosophers to discuss this engaging interdisciplinary topic

Kohav, 2019 The volume investigates the question of meaning of mystical phenomena and conversely queries the concept of meaning itself via insights afforded by mystical experiences The collection brings together researchers from such disparate fields as philosophy psychology history of religion cognitive poetics and semiotics in an effort to ascertain the question of mysticism s meaning through pertinent up to date multidisciplinary The discussion commences with Editor s Introduction that probes persistent questions of complexity as well as perplexity of mysticism and the reasons why problematizing mysticism leads to even greater enigmas One thread within the volume provides the contextual framework for continuing fascination of mysticism that includes a consideration of several historical traditions as well as personal accounts of mystical experiences Two contributions showcase ancient Egyptian and ancient Israelite involvements with mystical alterations of consciousness and Christianity s origins being steeped in mystical praxis and four essays highlight mysticism s formative presence in Chinese traditions and Tibetan Buddhism as well as medieval Judaism and Kabbalah mysticism A second more overarching strand within the volume is concerned with multidisciplinary investigations of the phenomenon of mysticism including philosophical psychological cognitive and semiotic analyses To this effect the volume explores the question of philosophy s relation to mysticism and vice versa together with a Wittgensteinian nexus between mysticism facticity and truth language mysticism and supernormal meaning engendered by certain mystical states cognitive poetic analysis of mystical poetry and a semiotic scrutiny of some mystical experiences and their ineffability

Moments of Disruption Kris

Sealey,2013-12-01 Explores the ethical and political implications of Levinas s and Sartre s accounts of human existence In Moments of Disruption Kris Sealey considers Emmanuel Levinas and Jean Paul Sartre together to fully realize the ethical and political implications of their similar descriptions of human existence Focusing on points of contact and difference between their writings on transcendence identity existence and alterity Sealey presents not only an understanding of Sartrean politics in which Levinas s somewhat apolitical program might be taken into the political but also an explicitly political reading of Levinas that resonates well with Sartre s work In bringing together both thinkers accounts of disrupted existence in this way a theoretical place is found from which to question the claim that politics and ethics are mutually exclusive

A New Look at New Realism Eric P.

Charles,2011-12-31 This volume brings to the attention of contemporary readers a tradition of psychological thought that has received little attention over the last century Psychology s history has been unimaginatively presented as a fight between behaviorists and mentalists A third alternative the New Realism which cuts through that dichotomy has been lost The New Realism was indeed once new This volume provides a glimpse of how this school of thought attempted to redefine the notion of mental processes including consciousness in psychological theorizing Holt s rejected the nativity of iconoclastic Watsonian behaviorists and thus the New Realism was thoughtful in ways that behaviorist social engineering was not The implications of these innovations in psychological theorizing are traced from the beginning of the twentieth century to the contemporary period The contributors provide these intellectual links along with efforts to look at the relatedness of the human organism and its world At their beginning these ideas are embedded in a reverence for William James s work particularly his later Radical Empiricism In contemporary psychology this legacy has given us the framework of ecological psychology as we know it today and provides the basis for several modern critiques of cognitive psychology The present volume opens the door for future historical inquiries This is an exemplary addition to the series on the History of Psychological Ideas
