Pirazizy, 1993 Human Origins, Genome and People of India: Genomic, Palaeontological and Archaeological Perspectives V.R. Rao, 2007-05-16 Papers presented at a national conference held at New Delhi during 22-24 March 2004 Sustainable Development of Mountain Environment in India and Canada Ram Babu Singh, 1998 Contributed articles of a study team on the use of land and resources in selected watersheds in the Upper Beas River Valley in Himachal Pradesh project sponsored by Canadian International Development Agency CIDA and Shastri Indo Canadian Institute SICI Geoenvironmental Hazards in Himalaya Bindhy Wasini Pandey, 2002 Addressing the Climate Crisis in the Indian Himalayas Anwesha Borthakur, Pardeep Singh, 2024-02-20 This book focuses on the traditional ecological knowledge in addressing the current climate crisis in the Indian Himalayas Local or indigenous people in the Himalayas through their low carbon producing lifestyles contribute very little to the climate crisis However at the same time they bear the brunt of this crisis way more than many others It is important to learn about their traditional ways of life and the knowledge that they hold regarding ecology and environment Traditional ecological knowledge and associated belief systems are given increasing attention across the globe in recent times toward addressing some of the grave environmental concerns Climate change is one such concern The rising consideration of concepts such as ethnoecology and ethnobotany signifies the scientific socio cultural and economic potential of the traditional ecological knowledge systems It is indisputable that these knowledge systems have the ability to provide important insights towards tackling many present day environmental distresses including several climate change challenges In this book the authors concentrate on such traditional ecological knowledge systems in the Indian Himalayan region and try to figure out their significance in relation to the modern science Overall the authors attempt to write a book where the relevance of traditional ecological knowledge systems could be addressed and communicated to a larger audience both academic scientific and non academic People and Mountain Environments Anwesha Borthakur, Pardeep Singh, 2025-05-02 People living in the mountains maintain a unique relationship with their surrounding environment Humans have settled in mountainous regions all across the globe for centuries adapting to the challenging terrains and establishing exceptional cultural practices and lifestyles Until today they depend on their immediate ecosystems for their everyday necessities while also conserving those environments through their own traditional practices and belief systems Understanding and addressing the ease and complexities of the relationship between people and mountains is essential for sustainable development through overall conservation and well being of both the environment and the communities living in these regions The mountain communities in the Himalayas and their interconnectedness with their surroundings could provide important insights in this regard For instance the interaction between humans and mountains in the Himalayas is diverse spanning across various cultural economic political environmental and recreational dimensions and parameters As sustainable development is a core goal of the world today it is both interesting and pertinent to explore these various aspects and locate possible learnings in the present day global environmental scenario Accordingly this book is an attempt to situate the interconnected between people and the mountains in the Himalayan landscape towards tracing learnings for sustainable development Our aim is to edit a holistic volume where aspects ranging from ecosystem services to cultural and spiritual significances of the mountains for the local communities and from contributions of the Himalayas in relation to water agriculture and food practices to the challenges associated with haphazard infrastructural developments and environmental justice implications are adequately addressed We acknowledge that balancing the human needs of the mountain communities while ensuring environmental conservation is a major challenge Ecologically fragile and biodiversity rich the Himalayan region is no exception Further mountain communities in the Himalayas are facing tremendous challenges in adapting to changing climate conditions such as altered precipitation patterns and increased frequency of extreme weather events Unsustainable economic activities in the form of chaotic tourism practices and infrastructural developments among others add to the emerging challenges Accordingly it is important to put research efforts towards active sustainable development practices where human needs are met while minimizing undesirable impacts on the Himalayan mountain ecosystems The Himalayas are critical for global ecological balance Therefore this book will not only be helpful for the countries situated in these mountain regions alone but also will provide useful insights for environmental sustainability at a much larger global scale
