Karma and Punishment Adam J. Lyons, 2022-03-07 Despite being one of the most avowedly secular nations in the world Japan may have more prison chaplains per inmate than any other country the majority of whom are Buddhist priests In this groundbreaking study of prison religion in East Asia Adam Lyons introduces a form of chaplaincy rooted in the Buddhist concept of doctrinal admonition rather than Euro American notions of spiritual care Based on archival research fieldwork inside prisons and interviews with chaplains Karma and Punishment reveals another dimension of Buddhist modernism that developed as Japan's religious organizations carved out a niche as defenders of society by fighting crime Between 1868 and 2020 generations of clergy have been appointed to bring religious instruction to bear on a range of offenders from illegal Christian heretics to Marxist political dissidents war criminals and death row inmates The case of the prison chaplaincy shows that despite constitutional commitments to freedom of religion and separation of religion from state statism remains an enduring feature of mainstream Japanese religious life in the contemporary era

Global Perspectives in Cross-Cultural and Cross-National Consumer Research Erdener Kaynak, Lalita Manrai, 2012-11-12 Global Perspectives in Cross Cultural and Cross National Consumer Research deals with several important issues crucial for greater understanding of international and cross cultural consumer behavior This understanding in turn can provide international marketers with valuable insights such as conditions under which globalization may or may not work The coverage in this book is interdisciplinary in nature and the chapters discuss several constructs intermediary variables processes and also other environmental influences related to social personal and psychological components or consequences of culture The book begins with a conceptual model of the effect of culture on consumer behavior with the components and consequences of the cultural influences clearly identified in terms of social personal and psychological factors The following chapters discuss general issues related to globalization and standardization present conceptual approaches to propositions relating to multicultural contexts and address consumer complaining behavior and responses to advertising There are five chapters on empirical and methodological studies conducted in specific pairs of countries with data obtained from Canada Denmark Japan Germany Poland Romania and the United States In presenting readers with new information Global Perspectives in Cross Cultural and Cross National Consumer Research spans these specific topics the nature of cultural influence on consumer behavior globalization versus customization of international marketing strategy individualism versus collectivism right versus left symbolism product involvement consumer response to information technology interdependent versus independent cultures The contributors are well known scholars in the international cross cultural marketing field their chapters present state of the art developments in this area The coverage of the material is interdisciplinary in nature and is likely to benefit a broad audience especially academic researchers in international or cross cultural consumer research and librarians of research oriented schools universities or organizations

The Nature of the Japanese State Brian J. McVeigh, 2013-09-13 Brian J McVeigh uses a unique anthropological approach to step outside flawed stereotypes of Japanese society and really engage in the current debate over the role of bureaucracy in Japanese politics To many in the West Japan appears as a paradox a rational high tech economic superpower and yet at the same time a deeply ritualistic and ceremonial society This adventurous new study demonstrates how these nominally conflicting impressions of Japan can be reconciled and a greater understanding of the state achieved Public Papers of
