Puffin, Bird of the Open Seas Lynne Martin, Ted Lewin, 1976-01-01 Describes the physical characteristics habits and natural environment of puffins sea birds who come near land only in spring      The Puffin Mike P. Harris, Sarah Wanless, 2011-11-21 A comprehensive monograph on the Atlantic Puffin With its colourful beak and fast whirring flight this is the most recognisable and popular of all North Atlantic seabirds Puffins spend most of the year at sea but for a few months of the year they come to shore nesting in burrows on steep cliffs or on inaccessible islands Awe inspiring numbers of these birds can sometimes be seen bobbing on the sea or flying in vast wheels over the colony bringing fish in their beaks back to the chicks However the species has declined sharply over the last decade this is due to a collapse in fish stocks caused by overfishing and global warming combined with an exponential increase in Pipefish which can kill the chicks The Puffin is a revised and expanded second edition of Poyser's 1984 title on these endearing birds widely considered to be a Poyser classic It includes sections on their affinities nesting and incubation movements foraging ecology survivorship predation and research methodology particular attention is paid to conservation with the species considered an important indicator of the health of our coasts      Nights of the Pufflings , 1995 Describes an island tradition in Iceland when the children rescue thousands of stranded young puffins each August and set them free at the beach

Landscapes with Figures Robert L. Root, 2007-04-01 For some a sense of place is about travel about plunging oneself into new settings For others it is about being and knowing home This book is a collection of essays memoirs nature writing and travel narratives that document the impact this sense of place has on writing In locations as familiar as Cape Cod or Mesa Verde and as exotic as Krak w or Kyrgyzstan thirteen accomplished writers of contemporary creative nonfiction share some of their most memorable work disclosing how place alters our perception and influences our insight Taking readers to deserts and forests islands and mountains Landscapes with Figures is an encounter not only with places but also with writers themselves Each contribution is accompanied by an author s commentary that discusses the relationship to place in his or her writing The authors reveal the connections they feel to the places they write about the role that place plays in the choices they make in relating their experiences and the strategies and work habits that produce such writing This compilation is at once a wide ranging anthology of the nonfiction of place for the armchair traveler and a book about writing for those who aspire to understand and practice the craft carrying with it the invitation to reflect on one s own special places The

Aquatic Birds of Great Britain and Ireland Charles Joseph Patten, 1906 Reptiles and Birds: A Popular Account of Their Various Orders, With a Description of the Habits and Economy of the Most Interesting Louis Figuier, 2020-09-28 There is little apparent resemblance between the elegant feathered warbler which makes the woods re echo to its cheerful song and the crawling reptile which is apt to inspire feelings of disgust when the more potent sensation of terror is absent between the familiar Swallow which builds its house of clay under the eaves of your roof or the warbler whose nest with its young progeny carefully watched by the father of the brood in the silent watches of the night is now threatened by the Serpent which has glided so silently into the bush its huge mouth already open to swallow the whole family while the despairing and fascinated parents have nothing but their slender bills to oppose to their formidable foe Placed side by side says Professor Huxley a Humming bird and a Tortoise or an Ostrich and a Crocodile offer the strongest contrast and a Stork seems to have little but its animality in common with the Snake which it swallows Nevertheless unlike as they are in outward appearance there is sufficient resemblance in their internal economy to bring them together in most attempts at a classification of the Animal Kingdom The air bladder which exists between the digestive canal and kidneys in some fishes becomes vascular with the form and cellular structure of lungs in reptiles the heart has two auricles the ventricle in most is imperfectly divided and more or less of the venous blood is mixed with the arterial which circulates over the body but retaining their gills and being therefore transitional in structure they are also cold blooded In birds the lungs are spongy the cavity of the air bags becoming obliterated by the multiplication of vascular cellules the heart is four chambered transmitting venous blood to the lungs and pure arterial blood to the body the temperature is raised and maintained at 90 to 100 Fahr Thus Reptiles like Birds breathe the common air by means of their lungs but respiration is much less active Although remarks Professor Owen the heart of Birds resembles in some particulars that of Reptiles the four cavities are as distinct as in the Mammalia but they are relatively stronger their valvular mechanism is more perfect and the contractions of this organ are more forcible and frequent in birds in accordance with their more extended respiration and their more energetic muscular action It is true as Professor Huxley informs us that the pinion of a bird which corresponds with the human hand or the fore paw of a reptile has three points representing three fingers no reptile has so few 1 The breast bone of a bird is converted into membrane bone no such conversion takes place in reptiles The sacrum is formed by a number of caudal and dorsal vertebrae In reptiles the organ is constituted by one or two sacral vertebrae

Word Stash Bill Casselman, 2017-10-13 Samples of the gems which glitter and await the reader inside Bill Casselman's Word Stash Ever helpful I offer readers handy tips not just about words but about living In a chapter on avoiding tired weather words I write Likewise disdained in weather response is understatement When a small child is blown away down the block towards an operating hay baling machine don't say Looks like the breeze has freshened On the contrary scream and run madly to retrieve the aerial infant But during weather commentaries overstatement may also be scorned At the onset of a thunder clap which sends a pet dachshund under grandmothers shawl do not leap on the barbecue canopy and shout Action stations What was my aim in writing this collection of short essays about language In each chapter I tried to select one word not merely rare but a choice vocable that is in fact le mot recherch  a term uncommon to the point of pretentiousness Email response reveals that readers of my work want to expand their vocabularies So why else am I here if not to foist upon innocent readers the most obscure word mosses scraped from oblivion's grotto With that modest caution then I invite readers to press onward toward the broad sunlit uplands of enlightenment where new words dwell

The winners in life's race : Or, the great backboned family Arabella B. Buckley, 2025-03-02 In The Winners in Life's Race Or The Great Backboned Family Arabella B. Buckley crafts a compelling narrative that intertwines biological science with engaging storytelling With an eloquent style reminiscent of Victorian literature Buckley presents an exploration of the vertebrate family elucidating the remarkable adaptations that have allowed various species to thrive The book is imbued with educational insights designed to captivate the imagination of young readers while simultaneously fostering a respect for nature and the interconnectedness of life forms Its vivid descriptions and clear illustrations serve to illuminate Buckley's scientific observations and her intention of promoting an appreciation for evolution and biodiversity within the framework of natural history Arabella B. Buckley a pioneering figure in the field of science communication combined her passion for education with her background in natural history to produce this engaging work She was deeply influenced by renowned naturalists of her time such as Charles Darwin and her own experiences as a lecturer and writer contributed to her understanding of how to effectively convey complex scientific ideas to a broader audience Buckley's commitment to both science and literature is vividly reflected in this landmark text I wholeheartedly recommend The Winners in Life's Race to readers seeking to ignite their curiosity about the natural world Buckley's harmonious blend of factual rigor and stimulating prose makes this book an invaluable resource for young naturalists and educators alike It invites readers not only to learn about life's vast tapestry but also to appreciate the
