Chinese and Indian Medicine Today Md. Nazrul Islam, 2017-04-04 This book discusses Asian medicine which puts enormous emphasis on prevention and preservation of health and examines how in recent decades medical schools in Asia have been increasingly shifting toward a curative approach It offers an ethnographic investigation of the scenarios in China and India and finds that modern students and graduates in these countries perceive Asian medicine to be as important as Western medicine There is a growing tendency to integrate Asian medicine with Western medical thought in the academic curriculum that has led to a gradual decline of Asian medical thought and practices At the same time there has been a massive rise in patent drugs health products and cosmetics being sold under the brand names of Asian medicine or herbal medicine Most of these drugs and health products do not follow the classical formulas found in the Asian medical texts The book analyses these texts and concludes that contemporary Asian medicine rarely follows the classical texts and in fact uses Asian medicine brands to sell Western health products and practices With a particular focus on the formal and professional sector of Chinese herbal medicine and Indian ayurvedic medicine in urban areas this book appeals to a broad readership including undergraduate students and academics as well as non experts Md Nazrul Islam is an Associate Professor in the General Education Office United International College Beijing Normal University Hong Kong Baptist University He was a Visiting Associate Professor in the School of Population and Public Health University of British Columbia 2015-16 during which time he completed this book manuscript

Treatment of Human Parasitosis in Traditional Chinese Medicine Heinz Mehlhorn, Zhongdao Wu, Bin Ye, 2013-09-30 This book intensively examines the efficacy of plant derived products that have been used for over a thousand years by practitioners of so called Traditional Chinese Medicine in the light of recent chemotherapeutics The chapters were written by renowned Chinese medical researchers and are supplemented by results obtained in German antiparasitic research projects Parasites and emerging diseases are a major threat of our time which is characterized by an enormous increase in the size of the human population and by an unbelievably rapid globalization that has led to the daily transport of millions of humans and containers with goods from one end of the earth to the other Furthermore the slow but constant global warming offers new opportunities for many agents of diseases to become established in new areas Therefore it is essential that we develop precautions in order to avoid epidemics or even pandemics in overcrowded megacities or at the large scale farm animal confinements that are needed to secure a steady flow of food in the crowded regions of the world Of course intensive research in the field of chemotherapy since 1900 has produced unbelievable breakthroughs in therapies for formerly untreatable and thus deadly diseases. However, a large number of untreatable diseases remain as well as a constantly growing number of agents of disease that have developed resistances to standard chemical compounds. As such, it is not only worthwhile but also vital to consider the enormous amounts of information that have been obtained by human high cultures in the past. Examples from the past like quinine or present like artemisinin, a modern antimalarial drug, show that plant extracts may hold tremendous potential in the fight against parasites and/or against vector transmitted agents of diseases.
