Culture and Identity explores the development of modern Sikh identities through the concept of cultivation of culture. It investigates diverse but repeatedly overlapping Sikh encounters in the fields of art, music and philology and considers their role in the making of a continuous living tradition. The volume focuses particularly on the imperial encounter and intellectual interaction between coloniser and colonised. It emphasises the enduring importance of the modern rational approach of the Singh Sabha Tat Khalsa reformers in defining a normative Sikh tradition. In so doing the author reflects on the importance of philological research and the complexity of modern knowledge production in relation to the formation of cultural identities. The chapters offer a critical historical overview of the changes in the performance and reception of Sikh devotional music in the context of the community's successive encounters with the Mughals, the British and globalisation. They also provide new insights into the life and work of Max Arthur Macauliffe, author of the classic The Sikh Religion 1909 and a contextualised discussion of contemporary Sikh drawings by Emily de Klerk. Taking a global interdisciplinary approach, this book will be of particular interest to scholars of religion, South Asian Studies and history.

International Bibliography of Sikh Studies Rajwant Singh Chilana, 2006-01-16. The International Bibliography of Sikh Studies brings together all books, composite works, journal articles, conference proceedings, theses, dissertations, project reports and electronic resources produced in the field of Sikh Studies until June 2004, making it the most complete and up to date reference work in the field today. One of the youngest religions of the world, Sikhism has progressively attracted attention on a global scale in recent decades. An increasing number of scholars is exploring the culture, history, politics and religion of the Sikhs. The growing interest in Sikh Studies has resulted in an avalanche of literature which is now for the first time brought together in the International Bibliography of Sikh Studies. This monumental work lists over 10,000 English language publications under almost 30 subheadings, each representing a subfield in Sikh Studies. The Bibliography contains sections on a wide variety of subjects such as Sikh gurus, Sikh philosophy, Sikh politics and Sikh religion. Furthermore, the encyclopedia presents an annotated survey of all major scholarly work on Sikhism and a selective listing of electronic and web-based resources in the field. Author and subject indices are appended for the reader's convenience.

Modernism and the Art of Muslim South Asia Iftikhar Dadi, 2010-05-15. This pioneering work traces the emergence of the modern and contemporary art of Muslim South Asia in relation to transnational modernism and in light of the region's intellectual, cultural and political developments. Art historian Iftikhar Dadi here explores the art and writings of major artists, men and women ranging from the late colonial period to the era of independence and beyond. He looks at the stunningly diverse artistic production of key artists associated with Pakistan, including Abdur Rahman Chughtai, Zainul Abedin, Shakir Ali, Zubeida Agha, Sadequain, Rasheed Araeen and Naiza Khan. Dadi shows how, beginning in the 1920s, these artists addressed the challenges of modernity by translating historical and contemporary intellectual conceptions into their work, reworking traditional approaches to the classical Islamic arts and engaging the modernist approach towards subjective individuality in artistic expression. In the process, they dramatically reconfigured the visual arts of the region. By the 1930s, these artists had embarked on a sustained engagement with international modernism in a context of dizzying social and political change that included decolonization, the rise of mass media and developments following the national independence of India and Pakistan in 1947. Bringing new insights to such concepts as nationalism, modernism, cosmopolitanism and tradition, Dadi underscores the powerful impact of transnationalism during this period and highlights the artists' growing embrace of modernist and contemporary artistic practice in order to address the challenges of the present era.

The Nation's Tortured Body Brian Keith Axel, 2001. Religion and Technology in India Knut A. Jacobsen, Kristina Myrvold, 2019-01-15. Religion tends to flourish when technological developments create new possibilities for communication and representation and simultaneously change as a consequence of these developments. This book explores intersections between religion and technology in India at the present and in the colonial past and how various forms of techno-religious intersections transform and open up for new religious practices, discourses, communities and institutions. With focus on Indian contexts and religions, it discusses various empirical and theoretical aspects of how technological innovations create, alter and negotiate religious spaces, practices and authorities. The book provides rich and multifaceted empirical examples of different ways in which technological practices relate to meanings, ideas and practices of religions. The techno-religious intersections generate several questions about authority and power, the politics and poetics of identity, community and place, and how religious agency, information and experience are mediated, commodified and adjusted to new demands of societies. The chapters explore the Hindu, Jain and Sikh traditions in relation to new technological developments and media such as photography, new means of visualization, TV serials, mobile phones and online communication. The book will be of interest to academics studying modern and contemporary India and South Asia and especially the role of religion and technology.
