Current List of Medical Literature, 1959 Includes section Recent book acquisitions varies Recent United States publications formerly published separately by the U S Army Medical Library Purine Metabolism in Man-III A. Rapado, R. W. E. Watts, Chris H. M. M. de Bruyn, 1980-09 However there have been many new developments during the last three years and the scope of the communications reflects not only increasing depth of knowledge but also a widening of the field This publication has clinical and fundamental implications for internal medicine pediatrics urology biochemistry immunology genetics and oncology It is interesting to compare the scope of this volume with that of its predecessors The main emphasis has shifted from the study of gout and the dissection of metabolic pathways to encompass investigations in the fields of oncology immunology and lymphocyte physiology There are pointers to possible implications in relation to cardiology and neuromuscular diseases which may well prove to be growing points for the future In spite of considerable work on the mechanism of urinary stone formation the inter relationship between uric acid and calcium oxalate urolithiasis remains obscure
