Higher Education in the BRICS Countries Simon Schwartzman, Rómulo Pinheiro, Pundy Pillay, 2015-03-24 In spite of the increasing attention attributed to the rise in prominence of the BRICS Brazil Russia India China and South Africa countries few studies have looked at the ways in which broader social expectations with respect to the role of higher education across the BRICS have changed or not in recent years Our point of departure is that contrary to the conventional wisdom focusing on functionalistic perspectives higher education systems are not just designed by governments to fulfill certain functions but have a tendency for evolving in a rather unpredictable fashion as a result of the complex interplay between a number of internal and external factors. In reality, national higher education systems develop and change according to a complex process that encompasses the expectations of governmental agencies, markets, the aspirations of the population for the benefits of education, the specific institutional traditions and cultures of higher education institutions, and increasingly so, the interests and strategies of the private firms entering and offering services in the higher education market. This basically means that it is of utmost importance to move away from conceiving of universities or higher education as single monolithic actors or sector. One way of doing this is by investigating a selected number of distinct but nonetheless interrelated factors or drivers which taken together help determine the nature and scope of the social compact between higher education, its core actors and institutions, and society at large: government, industry, local communities, professional associations.

Competence-based Vocational and Professional Education Martin Mulder, 2016-09-08. This book presents a comprehensive overview of extant literature on competence-based vocational and professional education since the introduction of the competence concept in the 1950s. To structure the field, the book distinguishes between three approaches to defining competence based on 1) functional behaviourism, 2) integrated occupationalism, and 3) situated professionalism. It also distinguishes between two ways of operationalizing competence: 1) behaviour-oriented generic and 2) task-oriented specific competence. Lastly, it identifies three kinds of competencies related to 1) specific activities, 2) known jobs, and 3) the unknown future. Competence for the unknown future must receive more attention as our world is rapidly evolving and there are many global challenges which call for innovation and a profound transformation of policies and practices. The book presents a range of different approaches to competence-based education and demonstrates that competence-based education is a worldwide innovation which is institutionalized in various ways. It presents the major theories and policies, specific components of educational systems such as recognition, accreditation, modelling, and assessment, and developments in discipline-oriented and transversal competence domains. The book concludes by synthesizing the different perspectives with the intention to contribute to further improving vocational and professional education policy and practice.

Joao Santos, Deputy Head of Unit C5 Vocational Training and Adult Education, Directorate General for Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion, European Commission. This comprehensive work on competence-based education, led by Martin Mulder, provides an excellent and timely contribution to the current debate on a New Skills Agenda for Europe and the challenge of bridging the employment and education and training worlds closer together. This book will influence our work aimed at improving the relevance of vocational education to support initial and continuing vocational education and training policy and practice aimed at strengthening the key competencies for the 21st century.

Prof. Dr. Reinhold Weiss, Deputy President and Head of the Research Federal Institute for Vocational Education and Training (BIBB), Bonn, Germany. This book illustrates that the idea and concept of competence is not only a buzzword in educational debates but key to innovative pedagogical thinking as well as educational practice Prof Dr Johanna Lasonen College of Education University of South Florida Tampa USA Competence based Vocational and Professional Education is one of the most important multi disciplinary book in education and training This path breaking book offers a timely rich and global perspective on the field The book is a good resource for practitioners policymakers and researchers

The False Promise of Global Learning Alex Standish, 2012-05-31 Through the language of global learning education is being reformed by corporations political activists and policy makers Academic subject based knowledge has been cast as elitist and outdated for a rapidly changing world The curriculum has been colonized in the name of teaching skills and attitudes for the global market and global citizenship Can young people effectively contribute to society without an education in academic knowledge Alex Standish argues that we can only educate children about the world if we are clear about the boundaries that provide education with its moral worth These include the boundaries between education and political activity public and private realms education and training theoretical and everyday knowledge communities and subject disciplines The False Promise of Global Learning demonstrates that the nature and purpose of education has become confused with social economic political and therapeutic aims and that control over the curriculum has been taken away from teachers and communities This is a hard hitting work that will resonate with all who have a stake in how and why we educate our children

EBOOK: The Moral Foundations of Educational Research Pat Sikes, John Nixon, William Carr, 2003-04-16 This is a book for everyone doing educational research It is not simply a routine provocation directed at positivists by a group of researchers advocating qualitative methods The book makes a valuable contribution to the literature on the ethics of educational research by offering something more than opposition to the narrow utilitarian research agenda British Journal of Educational Studies The Moral Foundations of Educational Research considers what is distinctive about educational research in comparison with other research in the social sciences As the contributors all agree that education is always an essentially moral enterprise discussion about methodology starts not with the widely endorsed claim that educational research should be useful and relevant but with the attempt to justify and elaborate that claim with reference to its moral foundations Determining the nature of usefulness and relevance is not simply a matter of focussing on impact and influence but involves a radical reconceptualisation of the moral and educational significance of what is deemed to be useful and relevant There is no argument with this emphasis on the generation of useful and relevant knowledge but it is suggested that educational research requires a fuller and more rounded understanding that takes account of the moral values of those who conduct it Educational research is grounded epistemologically in the moral foundations of educational practice It is the epistemological and moral purposes underlying the usefulness and relevance of educational research that matter
