Recollections in Tranquility is a sequel to Immigrantss Son O'Prey examines his fifteen years in religious life comments upon his training and compares his eight years teaching in parochial schools with his twenty nine in public education His conclusions are pertinent poignant sometimes perturbing but always relevant With honesty and humor he cites contrasts and similarities and ultimately concludes that the essence of his life has been his family Marriage to a supportive wife parenthood and now grandparenthood have enriched his life Retirement provided the chance to reflect and write This resulting chronicle portrays a life of satisfaction and his descriptions evoke images of personal success

How do we know? Evidence, Ethnography, and the Making of Anthropological Knowledge Liana Chua, Casey High, 2009-05-05 Since its inception modern anthropology has stood at the confluence of two mutually constitutive modes of knowledge production participant observation and theoretical analysis This unique combination of practice and theory has been the subject of recurrent intellectual and methodological debate raising questions that strike at the very heart of the discipline How Do We Know is a timely contribution to emerging debates that seek to understand this relationship through the theme of evidence

Incorporating a diverse selection of case studies ranging from the Tibetan emotion of shame to films of Caribbean musicians it critically addresses such questions as What constitutes viable anthropological evidence How does evidence generated through small scale intensive periods of participant observation challenge or engender abstract theoretical models Are certain types of evidence inherently better than others How have recent interdisciplinary collaborations and technological innovations altered the shape of anthropological evidence Extending a long standing tradition of reflexivity within the discipline the contributions to this volume are ethnographically grounded and analytically ambitious meditations on the theme of evidence Cumulatively they challenge the boundaries of what anthropologists recognise and construct as evidence while pointing to its thematic and conceptual potential in future anthropologies
