Recreational Fisheries:

Marine Recreational Fisheries, 1984 Recreational Fisheries in the U.S. Ellen K. Parker, 2016 Recreational fishing is a traditional American pastime integral to social cultural and economic life in coastal communities across the nation This time honored activity allows millions access to America s great outdoors each year while generating billions of dollars in economic activity Traditionally shaped by commercial forces demographic market and ecological shifts are changing the nature of U S fisheries Our nation s expansive coastal and ocean resources face increasing pressure as coastal populations grow and more people pursue recreational opportunities in ecologically important marine and estuarine areas The purpose of this book is to provide guidance for Agency consideration in its deliberations pertaining to development and maintenance of enduring and sustainable high quality saltwater recreational fisheries This policy identifies goals and guiding principles to be integrated into NOAA s National Marine Fisheries Service s NMFS planning budgeting decision making and activities and includes examples of implementation concepts and strategies supported by NMFS Moreover this book provides a detailed overview of the operating structure of the average Northeast for hire head boat and charter boat and estimates the economic activity that for hire businesses contribute to the Northeast s economy as measured by total employment labor income and sales Lastly this book examines challenges that have been identified with the NMFS data collection efforts for managing marine recreational fisheries and steps the agency has taken to improve data collection and challenges that remain

Fisheries USA U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1990 National Recreational Fisheries Policy, 1988 Review of Recreational Fisheries Survey Methods National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Ocean Studies Board, Committee on the Review of Recreational Fisheries Survey Methods, 2006-08-13 Recreational fishing in the United States is an important social and economic component of many marine fisheries with an estimated 14 million anglers making almost 82 million fishing trips in 2004 Although each individual angler typically harvests a small number of fish collectively these sport fisheries can take a significant fraction of the yearly catch in some cases more than commercial fisheries For example in 1999 recreational fishing accounted for 94% of the total catch of spotted sea trout 76% of striped bass and sheephead and 60 percent of king mackerel It is important that systems used to monitor fishing catch are adequate for timely management of recreational fisheries However the large number of anglers and access points makes monitoring recreational fishing much more difficult than monitoring commercial fishing This report reviews the types of survey methods used to estimate catch in recreational fisheries including state federal cooperative programs The report finds that both telephone survey and onsite access components of the current monitoring systems have serious flaws in design or implementation There are also several areas of miscommunication and mismatched criteria among designers of surveys data collectors and recreational fisheries The report recommends that a comprehensive universal sampling frame with national coverage should be established and that improvements should be made in statistical analysis of the data collected and in the ways the data are communicated A permanent and independent research group should be established and funded to evaluate the statistical design and adequacy of recreational fishery surveys and to guide necessary modifications or new initiatives A Heritage of Fishing United States. Global Challenges in Recreational Fisheries Øystein Aas,2008-04-30 Recreational or sports fishing is a multi billion dollar industry worldwide and in many countries represents an important social and cultural activity In some regions it also contributes significant income to tourism and tackle businesses In addition to its importance from a social and economic standpoint the impact of recreational fishing on the environment and on food webs can often be substantial This important book represents the major output from the 4th World Recreational Fishing Conference held in Norway in June 2005 The conference focused on several topics and targeted all stakeholders in the recreational fishing sector including researchers managers NGO representatives and businesses This book reflects that diversity encompassing a variety of approaches within its carefully selected and fully peer reviewed chapters Global Challenges in Recreational Fisheries is an essential purchase for fisheries managers multidisciplinary fisheries scientists marine and freshwater biologists ecologists and environmental scientists The book is highly relevant for graduate university courses in fisheries management and fisheries sciences Libraries in all universities government fish and wildlife agencies and research establishments where these subjects are studied and taught will need copies of this important publication Recreational Fisheries Stewardship Initiative Sport Fishing and Boating Partnership Council (U.S.). Recreational Fisheries Stewardship Committee,1995 National Recreational Fisheries Policy ,1988 Handbook for data collection on recreational fisheries in the Mediterranean and the Black Sea Grati, F., Carlson, A., Carpentieri, P. & Cerri, J.,2021-07-06

Marine recreational fisheries are an integral part of Mediterranean and Black Sea coastal life and are commonly practiced throughout the region Recreational fisheries also represent an important driver of coastal tourism which constitutes one of the region s most important maritime sectors in terms of gross value added and employment However despite their ubiquity and potential socio economic contribution recreational fisheries are a data poor sector and can vary widely from one country to another thus impairing proper consideration of the recreational fisheries sector in policy making and undermining efforts towards sustainable fisheries management at the regional level The main goal of this handbook is therefore to provide a clear methodological framework to allow Mediterranean and Black Sea countries to implement suitably harmonized sampling and survey monitoring schemes for recreational fisheries This handbook establishes a minimum set of necessary information for monitoring recreational fisheries while at the same time allowing for flexibility to accommodate national specificities and data collection needs It also provide guidance on the data analysis process as well as advice to successfully engage stakeholders in the data collection process

Recreational Fisheries in the Mediterranean Countries Charline Gaudin, Cassandra De Young, 2007-01-01 The purpose of this study is to provide a snapshot of recreational fisheries legal frameworks within the Mediterranean with a view to promoting homogeneous and comprehensive recreational fisheries management in the Mediterranean The study reviews the existing laws and regulations concerning recreational fisheries adopted by Mediterranean countries It provides first an overview of relevant international initiatives regarding the management of recreational fisheries and a summary of marine recreational fisheries within the Mediterranean basin The core of the study focuses on a comparative analysis of the main management measures adopted by States including i access regimes to fisheries resources ii conservation measures iii special recreational fisheries regulations and iv monitoring control and surveillance of recreational fisheries
