Kirkpatrick,2010-09-01 The lingua franca role of English coupled with its status as the official language of ASEAN has important implications for language policy and language education These include the relationship between English the respective national languages of ASEAN and thousands of local languages How can the demand for English be balanced against the need for people to acquire their national language and mother tongue While many will also need a regional lingua franca they are learning English as the first foreign language from primary school in all ASEAN countries Might not this early introduction of English threaten local languages and children s ability to learn Or can English be introduced and taught in such a way that it can complement local languages rather than replace them The aim of this book is to explore questions such as these and then make recommendations on language policy and language education for regional policymakers The book will be important for regional policymakers and language education professionals It should also benefit language teachers especially but by no means exclusively English language teachers The book will be of interest to all who are interested in the development of English as an international language and the possible implications of this upon local languages and cultures

Andy Kirkpatrick is chair professor of English as an international language at the Hong Kong Institute of Education and director of the Institute s Research Centre into Language Education and Acquisition in Multilingual Societies His research interests include the development of regional varieties of English and the history of Chinese rhetoric Much research has been carried out on varieties of English used in Southeast Asia but how intelligible these varieties are to others and whether a shift towards an international standard variety occurs in interactions between people from the region has been much less discussed This volume which provides a comprehensive account of the roles and functions of English in ASEAN and gives a linguistic description of the English spoken in the region followed by an approach to teaching English called the multilingual model is therefore a welcome contribution to studies on English in Asia Azirah Hashim Professor of English University of Malaya miles from the last outpost is a constant danger and where the wilderness still deserves to be called wild Along the way Pianka provides much general information about lizard ecology the fire succession cycle and the interaction of humans with the landscape And he reveals the springs of his own determined spirit and love of solitude describing a near fatal boyhood accident and its shaping and character building effect on the life that followed Lizard's Lair Derek Laurens,2008-08
