Regional Integration in Latin America and the Caribbean V. Bulmer-Thomas, 2001 This collection is a sober assessment of the state of regional integration in Latin America and the Caribbean It studies the question from four perspectives economic institutional political and in relation to the rest of the world It considers the questions raised by LAC countries efforts to use new regionalism to address the challenges of globalization and to explore the nature and meaning of open regionalism This thematic treatment draws on the experience of the different schemes currently in place in the region NAFTA CACM CARICOM the Andean Community and MERCOSUR It also examines the nature of globalization including concerns over the relationship between regionalism and the multilateral system There is now a broad consensus among LAC countries that regional integration can help them adjust to the new world order but there is much less agreement on how to achieve it and what reforms are needed to bring it about Connecting the Dots Mauricio Mesquita Moreira, 2018-05-29 What can be said of Latin America and the Caribbean s experiment with regional integration Did it live up to the expectations What does this experience say about the regional integration agenda moving forward Do the tectonic changes undergone by the world economy in the last quarter of a century matter for policy design This report offers answers to these pressing questions It argues that while the new regionalism was in general effective to promote international trade it failed to boost the region s competitiveness abroad Fragmentation is seen as the original sin and convergence the path to redemption The policy recommendations offer different routes to convergence from a cautious cumulation of rules or origin approach to a non stop sprint to a LAC FTA But they all come with a warning in the current challenging trade environment the benefits of caution might be too little too late

The New Face of Regional Integration in Latin America and the Caribbean Enrique V. Iglesias, 1997

Regional Economic Integration in Latin America and the Caribbean: A Comparative Case Study Paulette Howlett, 2012 Abstract In this study the question of whether integration is the answer to economic development in the Latin America and Caribbean LAC region is explored Regional economic integration is not a new phenomenon and can be traced at least as far back as World War II The specific problem is while the LAC region has seen a decline in tariffs from 40% in the 1980s to about 10% in 2008 the share of intra regional trade has declined or remained the same since 2000 In addition the region has seen exports drop from 11.3% in 1948 to 3.7% in 2007 whereas Asia saw an increase from 14% to 28% during the same period This study focused on collecting and comparing secondary data related to regional economic integration in the LAC region Three questions addressed within this study include a why integration has declined or ceased in the LAC region b what efforts are warranted for government leaders to embrace transformational leadership in devising programs and policies that foster integration in the region and c how important is regional integration in the globalized economic world Necessary to moving forward is collective leadership from the countries that also lead in governance effectiveness and political stability The findings show although efforts continue to restart the process some charges of protectionism and lack of readiness are valid On the other hand many good arguments exist for greater integration in the LAC region Integration has played a role in the defense of democratic principles especially when threatened by de facto regimes or periods of political instability Continued research on integration as an economic approach and solution for LAC is imperative A better understanding of benefits and challenges related to hemispheric or regional integration is a reason to continue research on this topic

Better Neighbors Chad P. Bown, Daniel Lederman, Samuel Pienknagura, Raymond Robertson, 2017-03-15 This book proposes a renewal of Open Regionalism in Latin America and the Caribbean LAC aimed at achieving the region's goals of high growth with stability The LAC region experienced a growth spurt with equity during the first decade of the 21st Century It is well understood that an unsustainable demand boom fueled by terms of trade improvements drove this growth acceleration episode especially in South America Unfortunately terms of trade are no longer fueling growth and the region's policymakers are in search of new sources of growth with stability With the experience of East Asia and the Pacific in mind many policymakers in LAC are looking to international economic ties as a potential source of stable growth The challenge highlighted in this book lies in designing an integration agenda comprising trade and factor market integration that is conducive to region-wide efficiency gains which can help LAC enhance its global competitiveness The forces of geography imply that pro-growth global integration cannot be achieved without building a strong neighborhood Thus this volume argues that LAC's regional economic integration agenda needs to go well beyond the current spaghetti bowl of preferential trading arrangements

Open Regionalism in Latin America and the Caribbean, 1994
Cluster Report International Monetary Fund. Western Hemisphere Dept., 2017-03-10 This cluster report takes stock of and explores opportunities for trade integration in Latin America and the Caribbean LAC Drawing on a set of 12 analytical studies that will be issued as working papers the report examines the determinants of trade explores the potential to enhance LAC's trade integration and assesses the associated economic and social effects To deepen understanding of the region's policy options and trade strategies the report also incorporates the views of LAC country authorities based on responses to a survey This provides an opportunity to examine the alignment of recommendations based on the analytical findings with the region's current trade policy priorities with the caveat that the survey was conducted between late 2015 and mid 2016 prior to the most recent developments in the global trade landscape

Resilience of Regionalism in Latin America and the Caribbean Andrés Rivarola Puntigliano, J. Briceño-Ruiz, 2013-03-05 As regionalisation becomes an increasingly hot topic the authors explain why regionalism has been most successful in Latin America and analyse current processes and opinions of possible future developments in the region including the Caribbean Central America Brazil and Mexico
