Bibliographic Guide to North American History, 1985 Writings on American History, 1983 Register of Free Negroes and of Dower Slaves, Brunswick County, Virginia, 1803-1850 Frances Holloway Wynne, 1983 Writings on American History: a Subject Bibliography of Articles, 1985 Register of Free Negroes and Also of Dower Slaves, Brunswick County, Virginia, 1803-1850, 1983 Lancaster County, Virginia, Register of Free Negroes, 1803-1860, 1999 The Register of Free Negroes, Northampton County, Virginia, 1853 to 1861, 1992 Before 1670 position of African immigrants coming into the Eastern Shore of Virginia was not unlike that of most whites they were in bondage Although in the case of the Africans the bondage had not set time limit and was thus in fact slavery they were very often able to purchase their freedom acquire land marry have families and live an existence not unlike the freed white indentured servant After 1670 however a move began to discard indentured servitude and have slavery as the only method to supply the work force The Free Negro in Virginia 1619-1865 John H. Russell, 2009-01-01 It is one of the least commonly known facts about the Civil War there were many many free negroes living in slaveholding states before the Emancipation Proclamation This monograph on that surprising reality originally published in 1913 draws on such firsthand documents as court records contemporary literature and newspaper accounts and other sources to create the first such portrait of this nearly forgotten chapter of African American history From the various origins of the free negro classes to their legal and social statuses regarding everything from their right of travel to their relationship with their enslaved fellows this should supply some of the facts upon which the history of the negro race in the United States must be based wrote author JOHN HENDERSON RUSSELL b 1884 in his preface The Free Negro in Virginia, 1619-1865 John Henderson Russell, 1913 Surry County, Virginia Register of Free Negroes Dennis Hudgins, Virginia Genealogical Society, 1995 Richmond, Virginia Uncovered Nancy C. Frantel, 2010-01-01 Richmond is located in the heartland of Virginia on the free flowing water of the James River The James brought much pain for it was by this river that the slave boats arrived and unloaded their imprisoned passengers in the 1700s and early 1800s Many slaves purchased in Richmond were transported to other Southern states as demand for labor increased in those regions History has not left a complete story of those who lived and died in the area Many records were lost as a result of fires over the years including during the Civil War Fortunately information has survived to ensure that some of those who passed through this land are permanently documented The Richmond City Sergeant Register is one of those precious records The transcribed entries preserved on these pages portray the hardships experienced by the enslaved and free blacks in the area Entries typically contain name of the person committed name of the person who apprehended the slave or free black court information if applicable date committed date discharged number of days maintained in the jail and the charge for that maintenance charges for turning the key apprehending fee total charge to the prisoner or slave owner and arrangements for the payment of jail charges If a free black who was discharged after proving his freedom was unable to pay his jail charges he or she was sold at public auction to pay off this debt The length of service required to repay this debt ranged from months to years Lucy Briggs an unfortunate free black woman who attained her release from jail after providing her freedom papers was hired out for fifty nine years A sentencing chart follows the register entries a full name index completes this work Register of Free Persons of Colour ,1996 Accomack County, Virginia Free Negro Records Richard H. Smith,2007 Transcribed from Microfilm reels 193 and 316 located in The Library of Virginia Also included is a CD of all digital images from original documents S8570HB 36 50 Blacks in Brunswick County, Virginia Eula Jeannette Walker,2000
