Understanding the Black Flame and Multigenerational Education Trauma
June Cara Christian, 2014-05-01

Unlike any text to date, this revolutionary study surveys Black research and literature to determine the processes formal education uses to dehumanize Black students. This is a socio-historical analysis of the Black Flame trilogy. W E B Du Bois's unparalleled thirty-year study of Atlanta, Georgia, from Black Reconstruction 1860-1880 to 1956. W E B Du Bois is one of the most prescient sociologists of the twentieth century in his research of Black people in America. These ground-breaking novels establish racialization, colonization, and globalization as processes that continue to dehumanize Black students in education. Africana critical theory, ACT critical race theory, CRT, and Post-Traumatic Slave Syndrome (PTSS) privilege the research voice and experiences of Blacks. These theoretical frames speak to the pain and effects of the impact of unchecked gross voyeuristic violence that helps define the White supremacist patriarchal culture in which we live. Straightforward and direct, this book shows how the processes of dehumanization contribute to the legacy of trauma. White supremacy exacts upon Black people and their humanity. This study is aimed at highlighting the stark disparities in Black and White education over time. This book offers a candid look at how the myth of Black inferiority and the metaphor of the achievement gap describe conscious economic deprivation, mob violence, and intimidation, and White supremacist curricula yet continues to imply long-standing cultural notions of Blacks' intellectual inferiority. This research is offered to help mitigate the multigenerational education trauma Blacks have experienced since Reconstruction to envision an educational system that is efficacious and socially just in the distribution of resources, expanding diversity in curricula, and exposing pedagogical biases that traumatize not only Black people but all people.

Socialist Realism Without Shores
Thomas Lahusen, Evgenii Aleksandrovich Dobrenko, 1997

Socialist Realism Without Shores also addresses the critical discourse provoked by socialist realism, Stalinist aesthetics, anthropological readings, ideology critique, and censorship, and the sublimely ironic approaches adapted from Soviet art, the Soviet version of postmodernism.
