My Wife I Or Harry Hendersons History:

My Wife and I: Harry Henderson's History Harriet Beecher Stowe, 2020-09-28 DURING the passage of this story through The Christian Union it has been repeatedly taken for granted by the public press that certain of the characters are designed as portraits of really existing individuals They are not The supposition has its rise in an imperfect consideration of the principles of dramatic composition The novel writer does not profess to paint portraits of any individual men and women in his personal acquaintance Certain characters are required for the purposes of his story He conceives and creates them and they become to him real living beings acting and speaking in ways of their own But on the other hand he is guided in this creation by his knowledge and experience of men and women and studies individual instances and incidents only to assure himself of the possibility and probability of the character he creates If he succeeds in making the character real and natural people often are led to identify it with some individual of their acquaintance A slight incident an anecdote a paragraph in a paper often furnishes the foundation of such a character and the work of drawing it is like the process by which Professor Agassiz from one bone reconstructs the whole form of an unknown fish But to apply to any single living person such delineation is a mistake and might be a great wrong both to the author and to the person designated For instance it being the author's purpose to show the embarrassment of the young champion of progressive principles in meeting the excesses of modern reformers it came in her way to paint the picture of the modern emancipated young woman of advanced ideas and free behavior And this character has been mistaken for the portrait of an individual drawn from actual observation On the contrary it was not the author's intention to draw an individual but simply to show the type of a class Facts as to conduct and behavior similar to those she has described are unhappily too familiar to residents of New York But in this as in other cases the author has simply used isolated facts in the construction of a dramatic character suited to the design of the story If the readers of to day will turn back to Miss Edgeworth's Belinda they will find that this style of manners these assumptions and mode of asserting them are no new things In the character of Harriet Freke Miss Edgeworth vividly portrays the manners and sentiments of the modern emancipated women of our times who think themselves Ne'er so sure our passion to create As when they touch the brink of all we hate Certainly the author knows no original fully answering to the character of Mrs Cerulean though she has heard such an one described and doubtless there are traits in her equally attributable to all fair enthusiasts who mistake the influence of their own personal charms and fascinations over the other sex for real superiority of intellect
