Mystery Of The Coventry Cappers:

The Mystery of the Coventry Cappers Peter King, 2001 The Company and Fellowship of the Gild of Cappers and Feltmakers is one of the few remaining merchant guilds which can trace its origins back to the Middle Ages In this fascinating study Peter King draws on a wealth of archive material to tell the full story of the Cappers gild from its inception to the present day In exploring the ways in which the Cappers fitted into the local community King sheds new light on many aspects of social and economic life in the medieval and early modern periods from the role of women in the local economy to mystery plays and pageants

Stages of Evil Robert Lima, 2005-01-01 The evil that men do has been chronicled for thousands of years on the European stage and perhaps nowhere else is human fear of our own evil more detailed than in its personifications in theater In Stages of Evil Robert Lima explores the sociohistorical implications of Christian and pagan representations of evil and the theatrical creativity that occultism has engendered By examining examples of alchemy astronomy demonology exorcism fairies vampires witchcraft hauntings and voodoo in prominent plays Stages of Evil explores American and European perceptions of occultism from medieval times to the modern age

Robes and Honor S. Gordon, 2016-04-30 Robes and Honor is a fascinating exploration of the possible common origin and subsequent developments of investiture across medieval Christianity and medieval Islam The ceremony in all of its cultural variety was much more than the public adoption of a high value textile as symbol of office within a culture robing established a personal link from the hand of the giver king pope head of a sect ambassador to the receiver noble general official nun or acolyte This volume challenges current thinking on religious and regional boundaries of cultures raises semiotic issues about imagined communities and addresses problems of kingship

New Directions in Later Medieval Manuscript Studies Derek Pearsall, 2000 Influential scholars from Britain and North America discuss future directions in rapidly expanding field of manuscript study The study of manuscripts is one of the most active areas of current research in medieval studies manuscripts are the basic primary material evidence for literary scholars historians and art historians alike and there has been an explosion of interest over the past twenty years Manuscript study has developed enormously codices are no longer treated as inert witnesses to a culture whose character has already been determined by the modern scholar but are active participants in a process of exploration and discovery The articles collected here discuss the future of this process and vital questions about manuscript study for tomorrow s explorers They deal with codicology and book production with textual criticism with the material structure of the medieval book with the relation of manuscripts to literary culture to social history and to the medieval theatre and with the importance to manuscript study of the emerging technology of computerised digitisation and hypertext display The essays provide an end of millennium perspective on the most vigorous developments in a rapidly expanding field of study Contributors A I Doyle C David Benson Martha W Driver J P Gumbert Kathryn Kerby Fulton Linne R Mooney Eckehard Simon Alison Stones John Thompson DEREK PEARSALL is former Professor and Co Director of the
