The Oxford Handbook of the Politics of Development Carol Lancaster, Nicolas van de Walle, 2018-05-01 In many discussions of nations development we often focus on their economic and social development Is it becoming wealthier Is its society modernizing Is it becoming more technologically sophisticated Are social outcomes improving for the broad mass of the public The process of development policy implementation however is always and inevitably political Put simply regime type matters when it comes to deciding on a course of development to follow Further political institutions matter When a government's institutional capacity is low the chances of success severely decline regardless of the merits of the development plan In The Oxford Handbook of the Politics of Development two of America's leading political scientists on the issue Carol Lancaster and Nicolas van de Walle have assembled an international cast of leading scholars to craft a broad state of the art work on this vitally important topic This volume is divided into five sections major theories of the politics of development organized historically e.g. modernization theory dependency theory the Washington consensus of policies without politics etc key domestic factors and variables key international factors and variables political systems and structures and geographical perspectives inclusive of regional dynamics A comprehensive and cross regional examination on key issues of political development this Handbook not only provides an authoritative synthesis of past scholarship but also sets the agenda for future research in this discipline

Democratization Without Representation Kenneth C. Shadlen, 2007-08-09 When countries become more democratic new opportunities arise for individuals and groups to participate in politics and influence the making of policy But democratization does not ensure better representation for everyone and indeed some sectors of society are ill equipped to take advantage of these new opportunities Small industry in Mexico Kenneth Shadlen shows is an excellent example of a sector whose representation decreased during democratization Shadlen's analysis focuses on the basic characteristics of small firms that complicate the process of securing representation in both authoritarian and democratic environments He then shows how increased pluralism and electoral competition served to exacerbate the political problems facing the sector during the course of democratization in Mexico. These characteristics created problems for small firms both in acting collectively through interest associations and civil society organizations and in wielding power within political parties. The changes that democratization effected in the structure of corporatism put small industry at a significant disadvantage in the policy making arena even while there was general agreement on the crucial importance of this sector in the new neoliberal economy especially for generating employment. The final chapter extends the analysis by making comparisons with the experience of small industry representation in Argentina and Brazil. Shadlen uses extensive interviews and archival research to provide new evidence and insights on the difficult challenges of interest aggregation and representation for small industry. He conducted interviews with a wide range of owners and managers of small firms, state and party officials and leaders of business associations and civil society organizations. He also did research at the National Archives in Mexico City and in the archives of the most important business organizations for small industry in the post World War II period.

Guarding the Guardians Mathurin C. Hounnikpo, 2016-04-22. The relationship between civil society and the armed forces is an essential part of any polity, democratic or otherwise, because a military force is after all a universal feature of social systems. Despite significant progress moving towards democracy among some African countries in the past decade, all too many African militaries have yet to accept core democratic principles regulating civilian authority over the military. This book explores the theory of civil-military relations and moves on to review the intrusion of the armed forces in African politics by looking first into the organization and role of the army in pre-colonial and colonial eras, before examining contemporary armies and their impact on society. Furthermore, it revisits the various explanations of military takeovers in Africa and disentangles the notion of the military as the modernizing force. Whether as a revolutionary force, as a stabilizing force or as a modernizing force, the military has often been perceived as the only organized and disciplined group with the necessary skills to uplift newly independent nations. The performance of Africa's military governments since independence, however, has soundly disproven this thesis. As such, this study conveys the necessity of new civil-military relations in Africa and calls not just for civilian control of the military but rather a democratic oversight of the security forces in Africa.

The Logic of Positive Engagement Miroslav Nincic, 2011-08-15. Recent American foreign policy has depended heavily on the use of negative inducements to alter the behavior of other states. From public browbeating through economic sanctions to military invasion, the last several presidents have chosen to use coercion to advance U.S. interests when dealing with adversaries. In this respect, as Miroslav Nincic notes, the United States differs from many of its closest allies. Canada has long maintained diplomatic relations with Cuba, and several of the European democracies have continued diplomatic engagement with governments that the United States considers pariah regimes. In The Logic of Positive Engagement, Nincic outlines the efficacy of and the benefits that can flow from positive rather than negative engagement. Nincic observes that threats and punishments may be gratifying in a symbolic sense but that they haven't affected the longevity or the most objectionable policies of the regimes against which they are directed Might positive inducements produce better results Nincic examines two major models of positive inducements the exchange model in which incentives are offered in trade for altered behavior and the catalytic model in which incentives accumulate to provoke a thorough revision of the target s policies and priorities He examines the record with regard to long term U S relations with Cuba Libya and Syria and then discusses the possibility that positive inducements might bring policy success to current relations with Iran and North Korea The Transition David W. Lovell, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2002 This useful collection brings together scholars from diverse standpoints to examine the transition from Communism a decade after it began The result is a book that illuminates the changes and particularly the problems that have accompanied attempts to introduce representative democracy and a viable market economy into formerly Communist states Specialist chapters on the Former Soviet Union Russia Poland Azerbaijan and the former East Germany institutional accounts of postcommunist states and conceptual chapters result in this volume being ideally suited to university courses policy makers and NGOs that have an interest in transition countries Concise Encyclopedia of Comparative Sociology , 2014-05-12 The Concise Encyclopedia of Comparative Sociology presents the current state of knowledge in comparative sociology for students scholars and the educated lay public The major aim of comparative sociological research is to identify similarities and differences among societies studying variation across both geographical regions and historical periods This volume is divided into six broad categories Theoretical and Methodological Issues in Comparing Societies Comparative Historical Sociology Comparing Institutions and Social Structures Comparing Social Processes Comparing Nation States and World Regions and Biographies of Exemplary Comparative Sociologists Nearly 60 essays written by distinguished experts in their fields focus on the first five categories while the biographical section contains forty biographies of both classical and contemporary sociologists who have made major contributions to comparative sociology Contributors include David Baker Wenda Bauchspies Hans Peter Blossfield Harriet Bradley Sandra Buchholz Miguel Centeno Karen Cerulo Brett Clark Amy Corming William D Antonio Mario Diani Mattei Dogan Riley Dunlap Shmuel Eisenstadt Mike Featherstone Claude Fischer Joshua Fishman William Gamson Julian Go Jack Goldstone Ralph Grillo John Hall Steve Hall Robert Heiner Joseph Hermanowicz Margret Hornsteiner David Johnson Andrew Jorgenson Jack Levy Robert Marsh Bill McCarthy David Johnson James Midgley Peter Mohler Linda Molm Benjamin Moodie Victor Nee Anthony Orum William Outhwaite Anthony Pogorelc Harland Prechel Danielle Resnick Glenn Robinson Luis Roniger Thomas Saalfeld Stephen Sanderson Michelle Sandhoff Masamichi Sasaki Saskia Sassen Andrew Savchenko Harald Schoen Howard Schuman David Segal Michael Siemon Tom Smith Joonmo Son Hendrik Spruyt Robert Stebbins George Steinmetz Piotr Sztompka Henry Teune Arland Thornton Kathleen Tierney Jonathan Turner Nicholas van de Walle Henk Vinken Veljko Vuja i Erich Weede Michel Wieviorka Ekkart Zimmermann The Emergence of Multiparty Competition in Mexican Politics Patricia Huesca-Dorantes, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2003 Mexico s presidential election in 2000 marked the end of 71 years of one party rule after a slow process of emergence of democratic institutions and viable second party candidates Yet the process of democratization has been uneven proceeding much more rapidly in some regions than in others This book examines whether diffusion processes have been at work or whether broader national processes of change have unfolded across an uneven socio economic map Using new methods of spatial econometrics it explores how multi party politics have emerged in a single country testing both spatial diffusion and political development theories Mexico makes an interesting study with its contrasting borders different kinds of geography and levels of industrialisation and development it involves a wide range of variables as well as socio economic aspects of the population that display sharp regional differentiation

Competitive Authoritarianism Steven Levitsky, Lucan A. Way, 2010-08-16 Based on a detailed study of 35 cases in Africa Asia Latin America and post communist Eurasia this book explores the fate of competitive authoritarian regimes between 1990 and 2008 It finds that where social economic and technocratic ties to the West were extensive as in Eastern Europe and the Americas the external cost of abuse led incumbents to cede power rather than crack down which led to democratization Where ties to the West were limited external democratizing pressure was weaker and countries rarely democratized In these cases regime outcomes hinged on the character of state and ruling party organizations Where incumbents possessed developed and cohesive coercive party structures they could thwart opposition challenges and competitive authoritarian regimes survived where incumbents lacked such organizational tools regimes were unstable but rarely democratized

Southeast Asian Affairs 2005 Daljit Singh, Liak Teng Kiat, 2005 Since its inception 30 years ago Southeast Asian Affairs SEAA has been an indispensable annual reference for generations of policy makers scholars analysts journalists and others Succinctly written by regional and international experts SEAA illuminates significant issues and events of the previous year in each of the 10 Southeast Asian nations and the region as a whole

The Media in Transitional Democracies Katrin Voltmer, 2013-07-10 The last quarter of a century has seen an unprecedented wave of democratization around the globe In these transitions from authoritarian rule to a more democratic order the media have played a key role both by facilitating but frequently also inhibiting democratic practices to take root This book provides an accessible and systematic introduction to the media in transitional democracies It analyses the problems that occur when transforming the media into independent institutions that are able to inform citizens and hold governments to account The book covers the following topics normative conceptions of media and democracy the role of the past in the transition process the internet as a new space for democratic change the persistence of political interference in emerging democracies the interlocking power of media markets and political ownership the challenges to journalistic professionalism in post authoritarian contexts the role of the media in divided societies The book takes a global view by exploring the interplay of political and media transitions in different pathways of democratization that have taken place in Eastern Europe Latin America Africa and Asia It will be of interest to advanced students and scholars who want a better understanding of the media outside established Western democracies The book will also be of great value to policymakers and activists who are involved in strengthening the media in transitional democracies The Dilemmas of Statebuilding Roland Paris, Timothy D. Sisk, 2009-01-13 Sharing a consensus but offering a variety of approaches methodologies case analyses and recommendations the essays in this text provides a deeper understanding of the dilemmas of state building New Media Influence on Social and Political Change in Africa Olorunnisola, Anthony A., 2013-06-30 While transitioning from autocracy to democracy media in Africa has always played an important role in democratic and non democratic states focusing on politicians diplomats activists and others who work towards political transformations New Media Influence on Social and Political Change in Africa addresses the development of new mass media and communication tools and its influence on social and political change While analyzing democratic transitions and cultures with a theoretical perspective this book also presents case studies and national experiences for media new media and democracy scholars and practitioners Media Reforms and Democratization in Emerging Democracies of Sub-Saharan Africa Ufuoma Akpojivi, 2018-04-03 This book examines the media reform processes and re democratization projects of Ghana and Nigeria s emerging democracies It evaluates and critiques these reform processes arguing that because of dependency approaches resulting from the transplanting of policy framework from the West into these emerging democracies the policy goals and objectives of the reforms have not been achieved Consequently the inherent socio cultural economic and political factors coupled with the historical antecedents of these countries have also affected the reform process Drawing from policy documents analyses and interviews Ufuoma Akpojivi argues that the lack of citizens active participation in policy processes has led to neo liberalization and the continued universalization of Western ideologies such as democracy media freedom and independence Akpojivi posits that the recognition of socio cultural political and economic factors inherent to these emerging democracies coupled with the communal participation of citizens will facilitate true media reform processes and development of these countries Encyclopedia of Political Communication Lynda Lee Kaid, Christina Holtz-Bacha, 2008 Political communication began with the earliest studies of democratic discourse by Aristotle and Plato However modern political communication relies on an interdisciplinary base which draws on concepts from communication political science journalism sociology psychology history rhetoric and others This two volume resource considers political communication from a broad interdisciplinary perspective encompassing the many different roles that communication plays in political processes in the United States and around the world The Encyclopedia of Political Communication discusses the major theoretical approaches to the field including direct and limited effects theories agenda setting theories sociological theories framing and priming theories and other past and present conceptualizations With nearly 600 entries this resource pays considerable attention to important political messages such as political speeches televised political advertising political posters and print advertising televised political debates and Internet sites The audiences for political communications are also central necessitating concentration on citizen reactions to political messages how the general public and voters in democratic systems respond to political messages and the effects of all types of media and message types
