Aycock, 1995 With the rise of a succession of sophisticated approaches that largely disregard literature's traditional role as a mirror of life climate and other environmental factors have been generally disregarded in the interpretation of literary texts during recent decades. For that reason it is only fitting that the climatological dimension be re-explored after a forty-year hiatus. Climate and Literature embraces a significant revision of the original telluric notions about the determinist relationship between climate and the attitudes and behavior of literary characters set in particular surroundings. In place of such vague notions we find within these pages interesting and stimulating examples of true applied science and contemporary literary theory that more often than not treat literary depiction of climate not so much as a reflection of influence of particular geographic environments but as a powerful symbol for psychological or textural processes undergone by the novel's characters, narrators, or readers.

The Shattered Mirror María Elena de Valdés, 2010-07-05. Popular images of women in Mexico conveyed through literature and more recently film and television were long restricted to either the stereotypically submissive wife and mother or the demonized fallen woman. But new representations of women and their roles in Mexican society have shattered the ideological mirrors that reflected these images. This book explores this major change in the literary representation of women in Mexico. María Elena de Valdés enters into a selective and hard-hitting examination of literary representation in its social context and a contestatory engagement of both the literary text and its place in the social reality of Mexico. Some of the topics she considers are Carlos Fuentes and the subversion of the social codes for women, the poetic ties between Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz and Octavio Paz, questions of female identity in the writings of Rosario Castellanos, Luisa Josefina Hernández, María Luisa Puga, and Elena Poniatowska, the Chicana writing of Sandra Cisneros, and the postmodern celebration without reprobation of being a woman in Laura Esquivel's Like Water for Chocolate.

The Twentieth-Century Spanish American Novel Raymond Leslie Williams, 2009-07-21. A Choice Magazine Outstanding Academic Book. Spanish American novels of the Boom period (1962-1967) attracted a world readership to Latin American literature, but Latin American writers had already been engaging in the modernist experiments of their North American and European counterparts since the turn of the twentieth century. Indeed, the desire to be modern is a constant preoccupation in twentieth-century Spanish American literature, and thus a very useful lens through which to view the century's novels. In this pathfinding study, Raymond L. Williams offers the first complete analytical and critical overview of the Spanish American novel throughout the entire twentieth century. Using the desire to be modern as his organizing principle, he divides the century's novels into five periods and discusses the differing forms that the modern took in each era. For each period, Williams begins with a broad overview of many novels, literary contexts, and some cultural debates, followed by new readings of both canonical and significant non-canonical novels A special feature of this book is its emphasis on women writers and other previously ignored and or marginalized authors including experimental and gay writers Williams also clarifies the legacy of the Boom the Postboom and the Postmodern as he introduces new writers and new novelistic trends of the 1990s Pedro Páramo Juan

Patrick Dove,2004 This work examines four Latin American writers Jorge Luis Borges Juan Rulfo Cesar Vallejo and Ricardo Piglia in the context of their respective national cultural traditions The author proposes that a consideration of tragedy affords new ways of understanding the relation between literature and the modern Latin American nation state As an interpretive index this tragic attunement sheds new light on both the foundational works of modern Latin American literature and the counter foundational literary critiques of modernization and nation building Topics include Borges s short story El Sur in relation to the Argentine civilization and barbarism debate Juan Rulfo s novella Pedro Paramo in the context of post revolutionary reflection on national identity in Mexico and the lyric poetry of Cesar Vellajo s Trilce The reading is based on a juxtaposition of aporetically incompatible terms mourning the avant garde and Andean indigenism or messianism The final section of the book investigates two novels by Ricardo Piglia Respiracion artificial and La ciudad ausente in the dual context of dictatorship and the market Piglia s writing both echoes and marks a limit for tragedy as an interpretive paradigm
