Climate Change: An Integrated Perspective Pim Martens, J. Rotmans, 2006-04-11 Global climate change rapid substantial and human induced may have radical consequences for life on earth The problem is a complex one however demanding a multi disciplinary approach A simple cost benefit analysis cannot capture the essentials nor can the issue be reduced to an emissions reduction game as the Kyoto process tries to do It is much more sensible to adopt an integrative approach which reveals that global climate change needs to be considered as a spider in a web a triggering factor for a range of other related problems land use changes water supply and demand food supply energy supply human health air pollution etc But an approach like this which takes account of all items of knowledge known and uncertain does not produce clear cut final and popular answers It does provide useful insights however which will allow comprehensive and effective long term climate strategies to be put into effect Climate Change An Integrated Perspective will appeal to a broad spectrum of readers It is a useful source for the climate change professionals such as policy makers and analysts natural and social scientists It is also suitable for educationalists students and indeed anyone interested in the fascinating world of multidisciplinary research underlying our approach to this global change issue

Water Quality Agreement increased the effectiveness of air pollution treaties and increased climate change Part 3 Bio Hazards Policies and Paralysis deals with environmental problems closest to the everyday concerns of the public at large because they have immediate implications for food safety and other values Part 4 The Citizens Perspective focuses on citizen vis a vis environmental policy noting that in order to make policies work citizens must be willing and able to participate in policy making and cooperate in implementing environmental choices Part 5 Confronting Ordinary and Expert Knowledge explores opportunities and constraints affecting public participation in evaluation of science Part 6 Developments in Research Programming addresses such questions as whether scientists still have opportunities to do the research they want without being interrupted or disturbed by policy makers and other stakeholders Part 7 Policy Sciences Aspirations explores different avenues for improving environmental policy Volume twelve in the PSRA series should inspire further investigations of the relations among knowledge power and participation in environmental policy It will be of timely interest to
