The Oxford Handbook of Stress, Health, and Coping Susan

Folkman, 2011 Few publications have changed the landscape of contemporary psychology more than Richard Lazarus and Susan Folkman's landmark work Stress Appraisal and Coping. Its publication in 1984 set the course for years of research on the dynamic processes of psychological stress and coping in human beings. Now more than a quarter century later, The Oxford Handbook of Stress, Health, and Coping pushes the field even further with a comprehensive overview of the newest and best work in this dynamic subject. Edited by Susan Folkman and comprising chapters by the field's leading scientists, this new volume details the expanded knowledge base that has emerged from extensive research on stress and coping processes over the last several decades. Featuring 22 topic-based chapters, including two by Folkman, this volume offers unprecedented coverage of the two primary research topics related to stress and coping: mitigating stress-related harms and sustaining well-being in the face of stress. Both topics are addressed within their relevant contexts, including chronic illness, calamity, bereavement, and social hardship. The Oxford Handbook of Stress, Health, and Coping is an essential reference work for students, practitioners, and researchers across the fields of health psychology, medicine, and palliative care.

Geriatric Issues in Community Psychology Perspective Prof. Ram Jee Lal, 2024-09-02 The book entitled Geriatric Issues in Community Psychology Perspectives embraces the salient features of the aging process. The older adults face the challenge of maintaining autonomy in a society. Encouraging older adults to stay active not only benefits their physical, social, psychological, and emotional well-being but also contributes to the greater society. The book addresses the problems of aged persons. Since the aging population is growing rapidly, the goals and strategies of the UN program on aging, which are consistent with community psychology principles, could be utilized to provide more direction on priorities for the aging. Giving importance of social action and community intervention efforts, be made to improve the lives of older adults. These improvements can be achieved through empowerment, public education, and policy or legislative changes. The book highlights the components of successful aging and well-being of elderly.
