Biodiversity Conservation Ethics in Major Religions H. S. A. Yahya, 2010-10-22 Covering three broader issues biodiversity conservation religious doctrine and environment the book Biodiversity Conservation Ethics in Major Religions is the result of a unique approach It attempts to initiate scientific discourse through the fabric of religions Spread across 15 chapters the book covers the essence of 10 religions on biodiversity encompassing a wide range of issues related to conservation The book promises to be a useful resource for biodiversity students researchers and protected area managers and also for religious scholars who are invited to look at the broader themes of religions beyond theology

Animal Theology Andrew Linzey, 1995 Animal rights is animal theology The author argues that historical theology creatively defined must reject humanocentricity He questions the assumption that if theology is to speak on this issue it must only do so on the side of the oppressors His theological query investigates not only the abstractions of theory but also the realities of hunting animal experimentation and genetic engineering He is an important pioneering Christian voice speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves

Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly Jorgensen, 2019-10-29 A groundbreaking study of how emotions motivate attempts to counter species loss This groundbreaking book brings together environmental history and the history of emotions to examine the motivations behind species conservation actions In Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly J rgensen uses the environmental histories of reintroduction rewilding and resurrection to view the modern conservation paradigm of the recovery of nature as an emotionally charged practice J rgensen argues that the recovery of nature identifying that something is lost and then going out to find it and bring it back is a nostalgic practice that looks to a historical past and relies on the concept of belonging to justify future oriented action The recovery impulse depends on emotional responses to what is lost particularly a longing for recovery that manifests itself in such emotions as guilt hope fear and grief J rgensen explains why emotional frameworks matter deeply both for how people understand nature theoretically and how they interact with it physically The identification of what belongs the lost nature and our longing the emotional attachment to it in the present will affect how environmental restoration practices are carried out in the future A sustainable future will depend on questioning how and why belonging and longing factor into the choices we make about what to recover

Reclaiming America Richard Cartwright Austin,1990      Christianity and Ecology Dieter T. Hessel,Rosemary Radford Ruether,2000 What can Christianity as a tradition contribute to the struggle to secure the future well being of the earth community This collaborative volume the third in the series on religions of the world and the environment announces that an ecological reformation an eco justice reorientation of Christian theology and ethics is prominent on the ecumenical agenda The authors explore problematic themes that contribute to ecological neglect or abuse and offer constructive insight into and responsive imperatives for ecologically just and socially responsible living      California Dreaming Ronald A.

Wells,2017-09-11 California matters both as a place and as an idea What famed historian Kevin Starr has called the California Dream is a vital part of American self understanding Just as America was meant to be a place of renewal even redemption for Europe so too California was intended as a place of renewal for America Therefore California place and idea provides a fertile ground for scholars to think deeply about what it means to articulate the promise of American life This book follows in the train of George Marsden s classic The Outrageous Idea of Christian Scholarship believing that people of faith have a contribution to make to scholarship and of Jay Green s more recent book Christian Historiography Five Rival Views believing that scholars of faith should engage in moral inquiry In this book eight authors inquire into the moral questions that emerge from studying California      New Criticism and Pedagogical Directions for Contemporary Black Women Writers

LaToya Jefferson-James,2022-03-03 New Criticism and Pedagogical Directions for Contemporary Black Women Writers is a collection of critical and pedagogical essays that shed new light on the creative depths of Black women writers On the one hand some Black women writers have been heavily anthologized they have more often than not been restricted by critical metanarratives Some of their works have been lionized while others remain neglected On the other hand some Black women writers have been ignored and understudied This collection corrects the gaps in our critical thinking about Black women writers by introducing them to a new generation of undergraduate and graduate students and by presenting pedagogical essays to our colleagues currently working in the field      Christianity and Ecological Theology E. M. Conradie,2006-10-01

There has been a proliferation of publications in the field of Christian ecological theology over the last three decades or so These include a number of recent edited volumes each covering a range of topics and consolidating many of the emerging insights in ecological theology The call for Christian churches to respond to the environmental crisis has been reiterated numerous times in this vast corpus of literature also in South Africa      Greening Death Suzanne Kelly,2015-09-01 We once disposed of our dead in earth friendly ways no chemicals biodegradable containers dust to dust But over the last 150 years

death care has become a toxic polluting and alienating industry in the United States Today people are slowly waking up to the possibility of more sustainable and less disaffecting death care reclaiming old practices in new ways in a new age Greening Death traces the philosophical and historical backstory to this awakening captures the passionate on the ground work of the Green Burial Movement and explores the obstacles and other challenges getting in the way of more robust mobilization As the movement lays claim to greener simpler and more cost efficient practices something even more promising is being offered up a tangible way of restoring our relationship to nature

Bron Taylor,Jeffrey Kaplan,2005-01-01 No Marketing Blurb Corpse Care Cody J. Sanders,Mikeal C. Parsons,2023-01-03 Corpse Care relates the history of death care in the U S to craft robust constructive practical ethics for tending the dead It specifically relates corpse care to economic environmental and pastoral concerns Death and the treatment of the dead body loom large in our collective cultural consciousness The authors explore the materiality and meaning of the dead body and the living s relationship to it All the biggest questions facing the planetary human community relate in one way or another to the corpse Surprisingly Christian communities are largely missing in the discussion of the dead having abdicated the historic role in care for the dead to the funeral industry Christianity has stopped its reflection about the body once that body no longer bears life Corpse Care stakes a claim that the fact of embodiment this incarnational truth this process of our bodily becoming is a practical ethical and theological necessity Decolonizing Wesleyan Theology Filipe Maia, 2024-02-15 What can movements for decolonization teach Wesleyan theology This book faces this question to show that decolonial voices are reshaping the contours of Methodist and Wesleyan traditions Contributors to this volume include theologians pastors and leaders in the Global South who are leading the people called Methodists to encounter the tradition anew in the radical spirit of decolonization

Bringing the Nation Back In Mark Luccarelli, Rosario Forlenza, Steven Colatrella, 2020-03-01 Argues that concern with the nation and national community will be a key factor in redefining twenty first century politics Bringing the Nation Back In takes as its starting point a series of developments that shaped politics in the United States and Europe over the past thirty years the end of the Cold War the rise of financial and economic globalization the creation of the European Union and the development of the postnational This book contends we are now witnessing a break with the post 1945 world order and with modern politics Two competing ideas have arisen global cosmopolitanism and populist nationalism Contributors argue this polarization of social ethos between cosmopolitanism and nationalism is a sign of a deeper political crisis which they explore from different perspectives Rather than taking sides the aim is to diagnose the origins of the current impasse and to bring the nation back in by expanding what we mean by nation and national identity and by respecting the localizing processes that have led to national traditions and struggles This is an innovative and refreshingly idiosyncratic volume that applies a range of bottom up analyses to the problem of the nation nationalism and the nation state Framed by very readable and highly informative introductory and concluding chapters the reader is introduced to the variety of approaches to nationalism not only regarding methodological approaches and theoretical trends but also regionally specific meanings of the nation Harald Wydra author of Politics and the Sacred Social Movements and World-System Transformation Jackie Smith, MICHAEL GOODHART, Patrick Manning, John Markoff, 2016-10-26 At a particularly urgent world historical moment this volume brings together some of the leading researchers of social movements and global social change and other emerging scholars and practitioners to advance new thinking about social movements and global transformation Social movements around the world today are responding to crisis by defying both political and epistemological borders offering alternatives to the global capitalist order that are imperceptible through the modernist lens Informed by a world historical perspective contributors explain today's struggles as building upon the experiences of the past while also coming together globally in ways that are inspiring innovation and consolidating new thinking about what a fundamentally different more equitable just and sustainable world order might look like This collection offers new insights into contemporary movements for global justice challenging readers to appreciate how modernist thinking both colors our own observations and complicates the work of activists seeking to resolve inequities and contradictions that are deeply embedded in Western cultural traditions and institutions Contributors consider today's movements in the longue durée that is they ask how Occupy Wall Street the Arab Spring and other contemporary struggles for liberation reflect build upon or diverge from anti colonial and other emancipatory struggles of the past Critical to this volume is its exploration of how divisions over gender equity and diversity of national cultures and class have impacted what are increasingly intersectional global movements The contributions of feminist and indigenous movements come to the fore in this collective exploration of what the movements of yesterday and today can contribute to our ongoing effort to understand the dynamics of global transformation in order to help advance a more equitable just and ecologically sustainable world
