Recollections of a Naval Officer, 1841-1865 (Classic Reprint) Capt. William Harwar Parker, 2015-07-09 Excerpt from Recollections of a Naval Officer 1841 1865. During the war with Mexico 1847-48 a friend of mine J Hogan Brown was the sailing master of the United States steamship Mississippi. The Mississippi went from Vera Cruz in the squadron to attack Tampico and had in tow the schooner Bonita gunboat. During the night a norther sprang up and the officer of the deck let the Bonita go and did not think it necessary to report the fact to the commodore. In the morning the commodore Matthew C Perry came on deck and not seeing the Bonita inquired where she was. The officer of the deck told him that in the night they had let her go in consequence of the weather. The commodore who was not noted for his suavity in mode though strong in the fortiter in re said Send the master to me. Upon his appearance he said Mr Brown where is that schooner Brown who was never at a loss for an answer instantly replied She is S S E fifteen miles distant. She is eh said the commodore and turning to the officer of the deck he said Steer S S E. The officers in the ward room hearing of the occurrence said Well old Brown is caught at last. In about an hour the man at the mast head called out Sail ho. Where away said the officer of the deck. Right ahead was the reply and in a few minutes Can you make her out. About the Publisher. Kidnapped at Sea Andrew Sillen, 2024-10-08 The true story of David Henry White a free Black teenage sailor enslaved on the high seas during the Civil War whose life story was falsely and intentionally appropriated to advance the Lost Cause trope of a contented slave happy and safe in servility David Henry White a free Black teenage sailor from Lewes Delaware was kidnapped by Captain Raphael Semmes of the Confederate raider Alabama on October 9 1862 from the Philadelphia based packet ship Tonawanda White remained captive on the Alabama for over 600 days until he drowned during the Battle of Cherbourg on June 19 1864 In a best selling postwar memoir Semmes falsely described White as a contented slave who remained loyal to the Confederacy In Kidnapped at Sea archaeologist Andrew Sillen uses a forensic approach to describe White's enslavement and demise and illustrates how White's actual life belies the Lost Cause narrative his captors sought to construct Kidnapped at Sea is the first book to focus on White's actual life rather than relying on Semmes and other secondary sources Until now Semmes's appropriation of White's life has escaped scrutiny thereby demonstrating the challenges faced by disempowered illiterate people and how well crafted racist fabrications have become part of Civil War memory

P. G. T. Beauregard T. Harry Williams, 1995-02-01 First published in 1955 to wide acclaim T. Harry Williams P. G. T. Beauregard is universally regarded as the first authoritative portrait of the Confederacy's always dramatic often perplexing general Chicago Tribune Chivalric arrogant and of exotic Creole Louisiana origin Beauregard participated in every phase of the Civil War from its beginning to its end He rigidly adhered to the principles of war derived from his studies of Jomini and Napoleon and yet many of his battle plans were rejected by his superiors who regarded him as excitable unreliable and contentious After the war Beauregard was almost the only prominent Confederate general who adapted successfully to the New South running railroads and later supervising the notorious Louisiana Lottery This paradox of a man who fought gallantly to defend the Old South and then helped industrialize it is the fascinating subject of Williams' superb biography
