Evolution of Peculiar Red Giant Stars International Astronomical Union. Colloquium, 1989-06-22

Red giant stars are evolutionarily advanced objects in the closing stages of their nuclear burning lifetime Observed with increasing spectral coverage they display a variety of unusual phenomena Many are characterized by peculiar non solar surface chemical compositions which provide otherwise unobtainable clues to interior nucleosynthesis mixing and evolution Others may have received their chemical peculiarities by mass transfer from a companion This book reports on the proceedings of the International Astronomical Union Colloquium 106 It contains discussions on many aspects of these stars combining theory and observation to interpret these objects in terms of their evolutionary history There are 20 review papers 69 abstracts and short contributed papers and a complete transcript of the valuable summary panel discussion Professional astronomers will find this book useful as a reference work which incorporates current research on the modelling and evolution of these unstable stars

Physical Processes in Red Giants I. Iben, Alvio Renzini, 2012-12-06 In recent years it has become clear that the red giant phase is one of the most dramatic periods in a star's life when all of its parts become involved in ways that have both direct and indirect observational consequences This is most particularly true of low and intermediate mass stars during the second ascent of the giant branch Such stars bring to their surfaces products of nucleosynthesis currently taking place in their deep interiors they pulsate as Mira variables develop extended outward flowing atmospheres that may exhibit maser properties and shed great quantities of matter sometimes highly processed into the interstellar medium The manner in which processed matter is brought to the surface is far from being completely explained and the precise mechanism or mechanisms whereby matter is ejected from the stellar surface whether by deposition of Alfvén waves radiation pressure on grains or as a consequence of some large scale envelope instability has yet to be elucidated to everyone's satisfaction The purpose of the second workshop in Astrophysics organized by the Advanced School of Astronomy was to bring together experts on all the physical processes occurring in red giants in an effort to emphasize the interrelatedness of these individual processes and to encourage a dialogue among experts that might serve to initiate a synthesis or at least sharpen our understanding of the most important problems to address in the future Bright Stars, Red Giants, and White Dwarfs Melvin Berger, 1983
