Mannitol is an antihypertensive agent belonging to Osmosis Diuretics.

Mannitol is an Osmotic diuretic used to remove excess water and toxins from the body in patients with kidney disease. It is also used in the treatment of cerebral edema and intracranial pressure.

Approximately 7% of ingested mannitol is absorbed during gastrointestinal perfusions in uterine patients. Mannitol administered intravenously has a volume of distribution of 34-3 L. Mannitol is metabolized only slightly, if at all, to glycogen in the liver.

Mannitol is primarily excreted unchanged in the urine. Intravenous administration of mannitol yields a total clearance of 5-1 L/hr and renal clearance of 4-4 L/hr.

Mannitol shows common side effects Headache, nausea, diarrhea, vomiting, dry mouth, thirst, dehydration, blurred vision, runny nose, arm pain, chills, dizziness, low blood pressure (hypotension), fever, irregular heartbeat, and electrolyte imbalance, etc.

Mannitol is available in the form of an injectable solution

Mannitol is available in India, US, Japan, England, China, Austria, Canada, Europe and Italy.

Mannitol belonging to the Osmotic Diuretic acts as an antihypertensive agent.

Produces osmotic diuresis by increasing the osmotic pressure of glomerular filtrate, which inhibits tubular reabsorption of water and electrolytes and increases urinary output. The mechanism of action in the reduction of intracranial pressure (ICP) is less clear. However, it is thought that mannitol reduces ICP by reducing blood viscosity which transiently increases cerebral blood flow and oxygen transport and constricts pial arterioles. This in turn reduces cerebral blood volume and ICP. Furthermore, mannitol reduces ICP by withdrawing water from the brain parenchyma and excreting water in the urine.

The onset of action of Mannitol is for Diuresis: 1 to 3 hours; Reduction in intracranial pressure: ~ 15 to 30 minutes.
