Manpower Policies And Development In The Persian Gulf Region:

Manpower Policies and Development in the Persian Gulf Region Robert Looney, 1994-05-30 The main thrust of this book is to address a number of manpower issues vital to the development of the Persian Gulf region By taking a long run perspective the study creates a framework for the development of future manpower policies in the key countries Saudi Arabia Qatar Kuwait Bahrain the United Arab Emirates Oman Iran and Iraq The past policies in the region of growth related investment industrialization and economic development should not be given priority over development related human resource issues Furthermore the pressing need to accommodate demands for more highly skilled national manpower should not occur at the neglect of the region s culture and values

International Labour Migration in the Middle East and Asia Kwen Fee Lian, Naomi Hosoda, Masako Ishii, 2019-08-22 The discourse on migration outcomes in the West has largely been dominated by issues of integration but it is more relevant to view immigration in non Western societies in relation to practices of exclusion and inclusion Exclusion refers to a situation in which individuals and groups are usually denied access to the goods services activities and resources associated with citizenship However this approach has been criticised in relation to gender issues which are very relevant to the situation of migrants The authors in this volume address this criticism Furthermore when framed within a North South discourse it may be potentially ethnocentric to assume that the experience of exclusion is cross culturally uniform Indeed work on migration issues has invariably been conducted within such a discourse The contributors go beyond this binary discourse of exclusion versus inclusion which has dominated migration research They examine the situation of migrants in the Middle East and Asia as one that encompasses both exclusion and inclusion addressing related concepts of empowerment ethnocracy the feminisation of migration and gendered geographies of power liberal constraint and multiculturalism individual agency migrant friendly discourses spaces of emancipation and spaces of insecurity The book highlights current research in the Arab Gulf states and examines multiculturalism in Asia more broadly It will be of particular interest to students and researchers in international labour migration studies in the Middle East and Asia

The Global Competitiveness of Regions Robert Huggins, Hiro Izushi, Daniel Prokop, Piers

Thompson, 2014-06-27 The aim of this book is to consider theoretically the notion of the global competitiveness of regions as well as giving attention as to how such competitiveness may be empirically measured With this in mind the book has three specific objectives first to place the concept of regional competitiveness within the context of regional economic development theory second to present a rationale and method for quantifying the global competitiveness of regions and third to undertake the most geographically widespread analysis of regional competitiveness differences across the globe With regard to the third goal the analysis incorporates more than 500 regions across Europe North and South America Asia Pacific the Middle East and the so called BRIC economies of Brazil Russia India and China The importance of the concept of competitiveness has increased rapidly in recent years with the issues surrounding it becoming at the same time more empirically refined and theoretically complex The focus on regions reflects the growing consensus that they are the primary spatial units that compete to attract investment and it is at the regional level that knowledge is circulated and transferred resulting in agglomerations or clusters of industrial and service sector enterprises This growing acknowledgement of the region's role as a key spatial unit of organisation has led to attention turning to competitiveness at a more regional level The book explores the results of the World Competitiveness Index of Regions WCIR covering the rankings and results of the 2014 edition The WCIR provides a tool for analysing the development of a range of regional economies across the globe It enables an illustration of the changing patterns of regional competitiveness on the international stage to be generated In fundamental terms the WCIR aims to produce an integrated and overall benchmark of the knowledge capacity capability and sustainability of each region and the extent to which this knowledge is translated into economic value and transferred into the wealth of the citizens of each region

Change and Development in the Gulf A. Abdelkarim, 1999-01-29 Processes of change stagnation and development in the countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council are analyzed in this book The contributors show impact of oil revenues on population change and social development and on redefining the socio economic role of the state Oil could open venues for industrialization and development However lack of population policies problems of human resources development the rather slow change in gender relations and in political systems and heavy spending on militarization it is argued could impede development endeavour

Gulf Security in the Twenty-First Century David E.

Long, Christian Koch, 1998-08-27 The connection between regional instability and the preservation of global security is nowhere more sensitive than in the Gulf Events since the 1990 1991 Gulf War continue to confirm the fragile interaction among states in the region and their susceptibility to external forces Gulf Security in the Twenty First Century brings together some of the foremost area experts to explore the most pressing issues including military threats to the region obstacles to economic development and socioeconomic harmonization and challenges to political stability In particular the work examines Iran's often enigmatic foreign policy vis-à-vis its Gulf neighbors, Iraq's resurgent military threat, choices and constraints confronting US Middle East policy, and Europe's inability to identify and pursue a united policy to safeguard its economic interests in the area. These topics are further illuminated with an analysis of Russia's historical attempt at balancing foreign policy objectives in the Gulf with its enduring interests in Central Asia. The potentially explosive issues of religious radicalism and the challenges of democratic pluralism are discussed in an effort to ascertain the potential of political Islam to disturb or enhance regional security. Similarly, the problems inhibiting the settlement of territorial disputes in and around the Gulf are brought into focus to illustrate lingering historical tensions among neighboring states. To round out the book's topical coverage, several contributors shed light on the region's unfettered dependence on foreign labor, growing demographic pressures, associated social and economic transformations, and challenges to responsive public policy.

Asian Migrant Workers in the Arab Gulf States Masako Ishii, Naomi Hosoda, Masaki Matsuo, Koji Horinuki, 2019-11-26
Asian Migrant Workers in the Arab Gulf States, edited by Masako Ishii, Naomi Hosoda, Masaki Matsuo, and Koji Horinuki, examines how nationals and migrants construct new relationships in the segregated socioeconomic spaces of the region, namely Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, and the United Arab Emirates. Instead of assuming that segregation is disadvantageous for migrant workers, it emphasizes multiple aspects and presents various voices. In this way, the book tries to unfold the region's segregated socioeconomic space as well as its new forms of networking and connectedness in order to understand how the various peoples coexist in a situation that often entails conflict and discrepancies between expectations and reality.

The Saudi Arabian Economy Mohamed A. Ramady, 2010-09-05
The Saudi Arabian economy has changed almost beyond recognition since the oil boom days of the 1980s, and the Kingdom itself has changed too economically, socially, and demographically. In the second edition of The Saudi Arabian Economy, Mohamed Ramady uses several overlapping themes to establish and develop a framework for studying the fundamental challenges to the Saudi economy. Particular attention is paid to the benefits of short-term planning and long-term diversification intended to shield the economy from potentially destabilizing oil price fluctuations and the pace and diversity of domestic reforms. The author examines the core strengths and evolution of various financial institutions and the Saudi stock market in the face of globalization, before analyzing the private sector in detail. Topics discussed include the hydrocarbon and minerals sector, including the emergence of the competitive petrochemical sector; the impact of small and medium-sized businesses and the evolving role of family businesses; the growing role of women in the Saudi economy; the role of privatization and FDI as engines of change; and the position of public-private partnerships. The establishment of a foundation for a knowledge-based economy. Finally, the author offers an analysis of the key challenges facing the Saudi economy, paying particular attention to the potential costs and benefits of globalization and membership in the WTO. Employment, education, economic and social stability, and Saudi Arabia's place in the Gulf Cooperation Council, as well as Saudi Arabia's evolving strategic economic relations with China and other countries.

are offered as keys to the consensus building needed to ensure the Kingdom's healthy economic future
