the conditions produced by their occupation by colonial and military powers At the same time Korea served as an important territory for the global expansion of the American and Japanese film industries and after the late 1930s Koreans functioned as key figures in the co production of propaganda films that were designed to glorify loyalty to the Japanese Empire For these reasons and as a result of the tensions created by divided loyalties the history of cinema in Korea is a far more dynamic story than simply that of a national cinema struggling to develop its own narrative content and aesthetics under colonial conditions

Urban Renewal in Central Seoul Hyung Min Kim,2024-07-05 Kim details a brief history of urban renewal in central Seoul through articulating urban planning paradigm shifts This book illustrates four main themes in central Seoul the restoration of the Cheonggye stream the redevelopment of the Sewoon Plaza the enhancement of walkability and public transport networks and history centred urban renewal Urban renewal is seen as a remedy for urban sprawl and is appreciated for its capacity to make use of pre existing infrastructure and cultural assets in high density urban areas However it faces critical challenges such as fragmented property ownership and escalated land prices in comparison with peri urban areas The book focuses on how planning policies have shaped the urban renewal process in central Seoul South Korea Spatial development policies for central Seoul have been changed from modern transport facilities post war reconstruction informality industrialisation to walkability sustainability and social cohesion in line with economic restructuring In recent times there has been a significant change in thinking towards creating public spaces for walking preserving historical sites and heritage and maintaining green spaces These interconnected topics contribute to understanding the complexity of urban renewal This book is a useful read for researchers on urban planning and policies who are keen to understand the complicated process of urban renewal and ways to revitalise economic and human activities and transform built environments

Chunhyo Kim,2016-02-26 This book analyses media conglomerates owning multiple media holdings under centralized ownership within and across media markets It argues that Asian capitalists utilize both a market oriented ideology and family connections to build their media empires thereby creating cultural conglomerates that exercise corporate censorship over media markets It focuses on family controlled media conglomerates in Korea specifically the international business giant Samsung and its related media companies Cheil Jedang and JoongAng Ilbo all of which are controlled by the single Lee family Utilizing the theoretical approach of political economy of communication the book examines how and why the Lee family exercise corporate censorship over Korean society Offering an essential take on Asia's political economy of communication in order to understand the workings of Asian media empires this book will appeal to students and scholars of Korean Studies Korean Business and Mass Communications Experimental Approaches to the Acquisition of Information Structure Tania L. Leal,Bradley Hoot, Stavros Skopeteas,Joseph V. Casillas ,Oksana Laleko,2025-08-19 Human languages constrain the form utterances can take with constraints on grammaticality being but one example Beyond grammaticality utterances can vary in terms of their infelicity depending on how constituents relate to the surrounding discourse context speakers communicative needs and speakers assessment of the hearers beliefs The study of information structure explores how speakers package their utterances into blocks with varying informational values formalizing these units with notions like focus background or topic These categories among others have been the subject of substantial interest and debate in linguistics generating both theoretical models and experimental studies bearing on how information structure is represented and interpreted in the minds of speakers and how particular information structural categories are encoded in the grammar However the study of how information structure is acquired is still fledgling with uneven coverage across populations and languages Similarly the wide cross linguistic variation in the use of syntactic prosodic and morphological means of its expression has been a major stumbling block in the development of a solid methodological foundation for experimental investigations As things stand the field is ripe for contributions from more varied approaches and drawing on linguistic data from under represented languages and populations

Library List National Agricultural Library (U.S.),1962 The Languages of Japan and Korea Nicolas Tranter,2012 The Languages of Japan and Korea provides detailed descriptions of the major varieties of languages in the region both modern and pre modern within a common format producing a long needed introductory reference source Korean Japanese Ainu and representative members of the main groupings of the Ryukyuan chain are discussed for the first time in great detail in a single work The volume is divided into language sketches the majority of which are broken down into sections on phonology orthography morphology syntax and lexicon Specific emphasis is placed on aspects of syntactic interest including speech levels honorifics and classifiers Each language variety is represented in Roman based transcription although its own script where there is such orthography and IPA transcriptions are used sparingly where appropriate The dialects of both the modern and oldest forms of the languages are given extensive treatment with a primary focus on the differences from the standard language These synchronic snapshots are complemented by a discussion of both the genetic and areal relationships between languages in the region With contributions from a variety of scholars of the highest reputation The Language of Japan and Korea is a much needed and highly useful tool for professionals and students in linguistics as well as area studies specialists
