Thompson, 2007-03-15 A beautifully illustrated look at the aesthetics and implications of the visual images used to sell Jamaica and the Bahamas to tourists as tropical paradises from the 1880s through the 1930s Tropic of Hopes Knight, Henry, 2013-09-17 Just after the Civil War two states prominently laid claim to being America's paradise destinations. Private companies, state agencies, and journalists all lent a hand in creating a seductive expansionist imagery that promoted semitropical California and Florida and helped sell Americans on the idea of an attainable paradise within the United States. In Tropic of Hopes, Henry Knight examines the promotion of California and Florida from the end of the Civil War to the eve of the Great Depression, a period when both states were transformed from remote sparsely populated locales into two of the most publicized and dreamed about destinations in America. Using the discussion of climate, geography, race, and environment to link agricultural, tourist, and urban development in these regions, Knight provides a highly original and informative account.

Mystery of Mysteries Lucyle T. Werkmeister, Professor of Philosophy and Director of the Program in the History and Philosophy of Science, Michael Ruse, 2009-06-01. With the recent Sokal hoax, the publication of a prominent physicist's pseudo-article in a leading journal of cultural studies, the status of science moved sharply from debate to dispute. Is science objective, a disinterested reflection of reality as Karl Popper and his followers believed? Or is it subjective, a social construction as Thomas Kuhn and his students maintained? Into the fray comes Mystery of Mysteries, an enlightening inquiry into the nature of science using evolutionary theory as a case study. Michael Ruse begins with such colorful luminaries as Erasmus Darwin, grandfather of Charles and Julian Huxley, brother of novelist Aldous, and grandson of T. H. Huxley, Darwin's bulldog, and ends with the work of the English game theorist Geoffrey Parker, a microevolutionist who made his mark studying the mating strategies of dung flies, and the American paleontologist Jack Sepkoski, whose computer-generated models reconstruct mass extinctions and other macro-events in life's history. Along the way, Ruse considers two great popularizers of evolution, Richard Dawkins and Stephen Jay Gould, as well as two leaders in the field of evolutionary studies, Richard Lewontin and Edward O. Wilson, paying close attention to these figures' cultural commitments. Gould's transplanted Germanic idealism, Dawkins's male-dominated Oxbridge circle, Lewontin's Jewish background, and Wilson's southern childhood, Ruse explicates the role of metaphor and metavalues in evolutionary thought and draws significant conclusions about the cultural impregnation of science. Identifying strengths and weaknesses on both sides of the science wars, he demonstrates that a resolution of the objective and subjective debate is nonetheless possible.

A Tenderfoot in the Tropics Mack Cretcher, 1918 The World's Wonders as Seen by the Great Tropical and Polar Explorers James William Buel, 1884 The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U.S. South Fred Hobson, Barbara Ladd, 2016-01-04. The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U.S. South brings together contemporary views of the literature of the region in a series of chapters employing critical tools not traditionally used in approaching Southern literature. It assumes ideas of the South: global, multicultural, plural, more Souths than South, that would not have been embraced two or three decades ago, and it similarly expands the idea of literature itself. Representative of the current range of activity in the field of Southern literary studies, it challenges earlier views of antebellum Southern literature as well as in its discussions of twentieth-century writing questions the assumption that the Southern Renaissance of the 1920s 1930s and 1940s was the supreme epoch of Southern expression that writing to which all that had come before had led and by which all that came afterward was judged As well as canonical Southern writers it examines Native American literature Latina o literature Asian American as well as African American literatures Caribbean studies sexuality studies the relationship of literature to film and a number of other topics which are relatively new to the field Coexistence Jan Sapp,2016-10-18 This book is about tropical biology in action how biologists grapple with the ecology and evolution of the great species diversity in tropical rainforests and coral reefs Tropical rainforests are home to 50% of all the plant and animal species on earth though they cover only about 2% of the planet Coral reefs hold 25% of the world s marine diversity though they represent only 0.1 % of the world s surface The increase in species richness from the poles to the tropics has remained enigmatic to naturalists for more than 200 years How have so many species evolved in the tropics How can so many species coexist there At a time when rainforests and coral reefs are shrinking when the earth is facing what has been called the sixth mass extinction understanding the evolutionary ecology of the tropics is everyone s business Despite the fundamental importance of the tropics to all of life on earth tropical biology has evolved relatively slowly and with difficulties economic political and environmental This book is also about tropical science in context situated in the complex socio political history and the rich rainforests and coral reefs of Panama There are no other books on the history of tropical ecology and evolution or on the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute Thus situated in historical context Jan Sapp s aim is to understand how naturalists have studied and conceptualized the great biological diversity and entangled ecology of tropics This book has potential to be used in tropical biology classes ecology courses evolutionary ecology and it could also be useful in classes on the history of biology Father Brown: The Complete Mystery Series G.
