Alfred Loisy and the Making of History of Religions Annelies Lannoy, 2020-08-10 This monograph studies the professionalization of History of religions as an academic discipline in late 19th and early 20th century France and Europe Its common thread is the work of the French Modernist priest and later Professor of History of religions at the Collège de France Alfred Loisy 1857-1940 who participated in many of the most topical debates among French and international historians of religions Unlike his well studied Modernist theology Loisy's writings on comparative religion and his rich interactions with famous scholars like F Cumont M Mauss or J G Frazer remain largely unknown This monograph is the first to paint a comprehensive picture of his career as a historian of religions before and after his excommunication in 1908 Through a contextual analysis of publications by Loisy and contemporaries and a large corpus of private correspondence it illuminates the scientification of the discipline between 1890-1920 and its deep entanglement with religion politics and society Particular attention is also given to the role of national and transnational scholarly networks and the way they controlled the theoretical and institutional frameworks for studying the history of religions

A Magic Still Dwells Kimberley C. Patton, Benjamin C. Ray, 2000-01-11 In this assessment of the field of comparative religion this text surmounts the seemingly intractable division between postmodern scholars who reject the comparative endeavour and those who affirm it It brings together leading historians of religion from a range of backgrounds and vantage points

Menzies,2014-09-25 Each generation asks in its own way What does it mean to be human In True Myth James Menzies addresses this question by exploring myth and religion in the thinking of mythologist Joseph Campbell and Oxford don C S Lewis Joseph Campbell understood Christianity as comprised of mythical themes similar to those in other religious and secular myths Admitting that certain portions of the biblical record are historical he taught the theological and miraculous aspects as symbolic as stories in which the reader discovers what it means to be human today C S Lewis defined Christianity and being truly human as a relationship between the personal Creator and his creation mediated through faith in his son Jesus Christ In contrast to Campbell Lewis took the theological and miraculous literally Although Lewis understood how one could see symbolism and lessons for life in miraculous events he believed they were more than symbolic and indeed took place in human history Not only does Menzies consider the ways Campbell and Lewis utilize myth in answering the question for their generation but he also probes the influence and presence of myth in philosophy media ethics history literature art music and religion in a contemporary context thus helping readers consider answers for their own age Handbook of the Psychology of Religion and Spirituality, Second
