Proceedings of the Danish Institute at Athens Søren Dietz, 1995 The Mycenaean Cemetery at Agios Vasileios, Chalandritsa, in Achaea Konstantina Aktypi, 2017-10-11 The Mycenaean chamber tomb cemetery at Agios Vasileios in Achaea was first investigated in the late 1920s followed by small scale research in 1961 In the years 1989 2001 further rescue excavations revealed 30 chamber tombs some looted Based mostly on the latest research this study is the first major presentation of the cemetery and its finds Death in Late Bronze Age Greece Joanne M. A. Murphy, 2020-01-06 Late Bronze Age tombs in Greece and their attendant mortuary practices have been a topic of scholarly debate for over a century dominated by the idea of a monolithic culture with the same developmental trajectories throughout the region This book contributes to that body of scholarship by exploring both the level of variety and of similarity that we see in the practices at each site and thereby highlights the differences between communities that otherwise look very similar By bringing together an international group of scholars working on tombs and cemeteries on mainland Greece Crete and in the Dodecanese we are afforded a unique view of the development and diversity of these communities The papers provide a penetrative analysis of the related issues by discussing tombs connected with sites ranging in size from palaces to towns to villages and in date from the start to the end of the Late Bronze Age This book contextualizes the mortuary studies in recent debates on diversity at the main palatial and secondary sites and between the economic and political strategies and practices throughout Greece The papers in the volume illustrate the pervasive connection between the mortuary sphere and society through the creation and expression of cultural narratives and draw attention to the social tensions played out in the mortuary arena

Chalkis Aitolias II Sanne Houby-Nielsen, 2020-07-24 Homeric Chalkis is situated on the coast of Aetolia at the very gateway of the Gulf of Patras The foundation occurred during an important period in early Greek history when trade and movement of peoples along the Gulf intensified with a resulting strong pull to the coast Well preserved stratigraphies date the foundation to the early seventh century BC and testify to a flourishing settlement in the sixth century lasting till the early fifth century BC when the site was temporarily given up Walls and roads follow a rectilinear layout A broad spectre of pottery shapes and wares attest to innovative local and regional workshops already from the onset of the settlement Alongside the pottery tools for complex textile manufacture were found in all houses among which were many small pyramidal loom weights and spools These findings indicated a high degree of experimental weaving techniques and demonstrated how the courtyard house as a new house model was particularly well suited to accommodate this manufacture probably mantels The results therefore offer important new evidence on relations between gender behaviour and Greek houses The catalogue is richly illustrated with profile drawings plans black and white and colour photos and accompanied by discussions of the material

The Ovoid Amphorae in the Central and Western Mediterranean Enrique García Vargas, Rui Roberto de Almeida, Horacio González Cesteros, Antonio Sáez Romero, 2019-09-30 Based on the proceedings of a workshop held at Seville University in 2015 this book looks at several series of amphorae created in the Late Republican Roman period sharing a generally ovoid shape in their bodies a group of material which until now has rarely been studied

The Shaft Graves and Other Late Helladic I and II Remains Michael Lindblom, 2025-04-01 This volume presents funerary and domestic remains from the Late Helladic LH period at the settlement of Lerna an important prehistoric site on the Gulf of Argos excavated by the ASCSA in the 1950s Most of the material derives from the fill of two disturbed shaft graves from the later half of the LH I period whose large ceramic and faunal assemblages are complemented by finds from an additional nine graves and domestic remains Stratigraphic analysis of the shaft graves and surrounding remains contextualize the ceramics and miscellaneous objects recorded in the accompanying catalogues Analysis of the pottery establishes a clear subdivision of LH I table ware into two phases and suggests a close relationship between kin groups at Lerna and at Kolonna on Aigina Contributions by Sturt Manning on radiocarbon dating of the shaft grave fills Ian Whitbread and Hans Mommsen on petrographic and chemical analysis of the pottery and David S Reese on the faunal remains shed further light on this important material The combined evidence suggests that Lerna was continually settled throughout the LH I period with decline in the early LH IIA period and abandonment in the LH IIB period While publication of intact monumental tombs often focuses on the elite occupants and their precious grave goods the value of the Lerna shaft graves lies in what they reveal about the hundreds of living participants in the funerary rituals

Ships of the Ancient Mediterranean David Blackman, Boris Rankov, Kalliopi Baika, Henrik Gerding, Jari Pakkanen, 2013 This is the first detailed and comprehensive study of the ships which were a defining symbol of naval power in the ancient Mediterranean Journal of Greek Archaeology Volume 3 2018, 2018-10-31 True to its initial aims the latest volume of the Journal of Greek Archaeology runs the whole chronological range of Greek Archaeology while including every kind of material culture Proceedings of the Danish Institute at Athens Rune Frederiksen, Søren Handberg, Kristina Winther Jacobsen, 2017-05-04 Ancient Greece Sigrid Deger-Jalkotzy, 2006-07-27 The period between the collapse of the Mycenaean civilization around 1200 BC and the dawning of the classical era four and half centuries later is widely known as the Dark Age of Greece not least in the eponymous history by A M Snodgrass published by EUP in 1971 and reissued by the Press in 2000 In January 2003 distinguished scholars from all over the world gathered in Edinburgh to re-examine old and new evidence on the period The subjects of their papers were chosen in advance by the editors so that taken together they would cover the field This book based on thirty three of the presentations will constitute the most fundamental reinterpretation of the period for 30 years The authors take issue with the idea of a Greek Dark Age and everything it implies for the understanding of Greek history culture and society They argue that the period is characterised as much by continuity as disruption and that the evidence from every source shows a progression from Mycenaean kingship to the conception of aristocratic nobility in the Archaic period The volume is divided into six parts dealing with political and social structures questions of continuity and transformation international and inter regional relations religion and hero cult Homeric epics and heroic poetry and the archaeology of the Greek regions Copiously illustrated and with a collated bibliography itself a valuable resource this book is likely to be the essential and basic source of reference on the later phases of the Mycenaean and the Early Greek Iron Ages for many years

Visualizing cityscapes of Classical antiquity: from early modern reconstruction drawings to digital 3D models Chiara Piccoli, 2018-04-30 The study presented here aims to make a practical contribution to a new understanding and use of digital 3D reconstructions in archaeology namely as laboratories to test hypotheses and visualize evaluate and discuss multiple interpretations Under the Sea: Archaeology and Palaeolandscapes of the Continental Shelf Geoffrey N. Bailey, Jan Harff, Dimitris Sakellariou, 2017-05-16 This book focuses on issues of method and interpretation in studies of submerged landscapes concentrating on illustrations and case studies from around Europe with additional examples from other parts of the world Such landscapes were once exposed as dry land during the low sea levels that prevailed during the glacial periods that occupied most of the past million years and provided extensive new territories for human exploitation Their study today involves underwater investigation using techniques and strategies which are clearly set out in these chapters The underwater landscape provides a rich source of information about the archaeology of human settlement and long term changes in environment climate and sea level This book highlights how such information can be revealed and interpreted The examples presented here and the focus on techniques make this book of worldwide relevance Chapters describe examples of underwater archaeological investigation as well as collaboration with offshore industries and legal management and training issues relating to underwater cultural heritage Such studies point to the significance of this drowned landscape and readers are invited to consider its human impact in terms of past settlement and population dispersal through palaeolandscape reconstruction and interpretation in relation to broader themes in human prehistory This volume is based on work from COST Action SPLASHCOS a four year multi disciplinary and multi national research program supported by COST European Cooperation in Science and Technology and has something to benefit all those with an interest in the sea floor of the continental shelf and the archaeological and social impact of sea level change including archaeologists marine scientists geographers cultural heritage managers commercial and governmental organisations policy makers and interested members of the public

Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Agata Ulanowska, Karina Grömer, Ina Vanden Berghe, Magdalena Öhrman, 2022-04-29 The diverse developments in textile research of the last decade along with the increased recognition of the importance of textile studies in adjacent fields now merit a dedicated full length publication entitled Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Humanities and Natural Sciences Interwoven for our Understanding of Textiles With this volume the authors and the editors wish to illustrate to the current impact of textile archaeology on the scholarly perception of the past not limited to archaeology alone The volume presents new insights into the consumption meaning use and re use of textiles and dyes all of which are topics of growing importance in textile research As indicated by the title we demonstrate the continued importance of interdisciplinarity by showcasing several interwoven approaches to environmental and archaeological remains textual and iconographic sources archaeological experiments and ethnographic data from a large area covering Europe and the Mediterranean Near East Africa and Asia The chronological span is deliberately wide including materials dating from c 6th millennium BCE to c mid 14th century CE The volume is organised in four parts that aim to reflect the main areas of the textile research in 2020 After the two introductory chapters

Part I About this Volume and Textile Research in 2020 follow two chapters referring to dyes and dyeing technology in which analytical and material based studies are linked to contextual sources Part II Interdisciplinarity of Colour Dye Analyses and Dyeing Technologies The six chapters of Part III Interdisciplinary Approaches to Textile Tools discuss textiles and textile production starting from the analyses of tools whether functional or as representative of technological developments or user identity Archaeological and cultural contexts as well as textile traditions are the main topics of the six chapters in Part IV Traditions and Contexts Fibres Fabrics Techniques Uses and Meanings The two final chapters in Part V Digital Tools refer to the use of digital tools in textile research presenting two different case studies

Crafting

Minoanisation Joanne Elizabeth Cutler, 2021-10-31 The mid second millennium BC material record of the southern Aegean shows evidence of strong Cretan influence This phenomenon has traditionally been seen in terms of Minoanisation but the nature and degree of Cretan influence and the process processes by which it was spread and adopted have been widely debated This new study addresses the question of Minoanisation through a study of the adoption of Cretan technologies in the wider southern Aegean principally weaving technology By the early Late Bronze Age Cretan style discoid loom weights had appeared at a number of settlements across the southern Aegean In most cases this represents not only the adoption of a particular type of loom weight but also the introduction of a new weaving technology the use of the warp weighted loom The evidence for and the implications of the adoption of this new technology is examined Drawing upon recent advances in textile experimental archaeology the types of textiles that are likely to have been produced at a range of sites both on Crete itself and in the wider southern Aegean are discussed and the likely nature and scale of textile production at the various settlements is assessed A consideration of the evidence for the timing and extent of the adoption of Cretan weaving technology in the light of additional evidence for the adoption of other Cretan technologies is used to gain insight into the potential social and economic strategies engaged in by various groups across the southern Aegean as well as the motivations that may have driven the adoption and adaptation of Cretan cultural traits and accompanying behaviors By examining how technological skills and techniques are learned and considering possible mechanisms for the transmission of such technical knowledge and know how new perspectives can be proposed concerning the processes through which Cretan techniques were taken up and imitated abroad

Embracing the Song of Expression: An Emotional Symphony within Proceedings Of The Danish Institute Of Athens Iii

In a world used by screens and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous transmission, the melodic elegance and emotional symphony created by the published term frequently disappear in to the background, eclipsed by the relentless noise and interruptions that permeate our lives. However, located within the pages of Proceedings Of The Danish Institute Of Athens Iii a charming literary prize brimming with organic emotions, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by a masterful musician of language, this interesting masterpiece conducts visitors on a psychological trip, well unraveling the hidden tunes and profound affect resonating within each cautiously crafted phrase. Within the depths of this moving examination, we shall explore the book is key harmonies, analyze their enthralling writing type, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
