Brain, Behavior and Evolution, 1992 The Practice of Mental Health Consultation Fortune Vincent Mannino, Beryce W. MacLennan, Milton F. Shore, 1975 Biopsychosocial Approaches in Primary Care Hoyle Leigh, 2012-12-06 ST MEDICINE IN A CHANGING UNIVERSE AT THE THRESHOLD OF THE 21 CENTURY Hoyle Leigh M D I Professor of Psychiatry San Francisco University of California and Fresno VA Medical Center INTRODUCTION During my lifetime the universe has changed beyond recognition The universe into which I was born in the first half of the 20 century was still infinite permanent orderly and tranquil a universe that worked like a masterfully constructed clock Matter and energy followed Newton's laws of conservation Shortly after my birth Hiroshima proved with a big bang that matter was no longer permanent everything was relative Einstein had also shown that everything that happened was local that is there was an event horizon beyond which no information could reach as nothing can travel faster than light When I was growing up the moon was for lovers and going there was an impossible dream Cosmologically the Big Bang theory that postulates that the universe was born out of an explosion some 10-15 billion years ago from a primordial point won over steady state It has been expanding ever since although the ultimate fate of the universe is still unknown whether it will keep on expanding resulting in a perpetual state of heat death or will at some point start contracting resulting in a big crunch of gravitational collapse ending in a single black hole out of space time and existence Quantum theory has defeated even Einstein's genius and proven that God indeed plays dice Acute Care, 1989

Connecting People with Technology George Hayhoe, Helen M. Grady, 2020-11-25 This book explores five important areas where technology affects society and suggests ways in which human communication can facilitate the use of that technology Usability has become a foundational discipline in technical and professional communication that grows out of our rhetorical roots which emphasize purpose and audience As our appreciation of audience has grown beyond engineers and scientists to lay users of technology our appreciation of the diversity of those audiences in terms of age geography and other factors has similarly expanded We are also coming to grips with what Thomas Friedman calls the flat world a paradigm that influences how we communicate with members of other cultures and speakers of other languages And because most of the flatteners are either technologies themselves or technology driven technical and professional communicators need to leverage these technologies to serve global audiences Similarly we are inundated with information about world crises involving health and safety issues These crises are driven by the effects of terrorism the aging population HIV AIDS and both human made and natural disasters These issues are becoming more visible because they are literally matters of life and death Furthermore they are of special concern to audiences that technical and professional communicators have little experience targeting the shapers of public policy seniors adolescents and those affected by disaster Biotechnology is another area that has provided new roles for technical and professional communicators We are only beginning to understand how to communicate the science accurately without either deceiving or panicking our audience We need to develop a more sophisticated understanding of how communication can shape reactions to biotechnology developments Confronting this complex network of issues we're challenged to fashion both our message and the audience's perceptions ethically Finally today's corporate environment is being shaped by technology and the global nature of business Technical and professional communicators can play a role in capturing and managing knowledge in using technology effectively in the virtual workplace and in understanding how language shapes organizational culture
