

STYLISATION

- Meyerhold liked stylised theatre because:
 1. The emphasis is on the actor working with minimal sets and props;
 2. Audience is compelled to use their imagination – they engage with the work;
 3. The actor relies on physical expression and the ability to manipulate this to suit character and “set roles”
 4. Words of the playwright may be transformed by the director
 5. Rhythm becomes uppermost in the director’s and the spectators’ minds
 6. The ‘look’ of the work is carefully constructed like a painting on a canvas;
 7. Stylised theatre can produce any type of play.

Russian Tragifarce Julia Listengarten, 2000-06 The tradition of Russian tragifarce can be characterized by its strong links to Russian political and cultural history and by its significant role in the development of Russian dramatic literature and theater practice The book argues that the dualistic character of Russian tragifarce which is close in spirit and philosophy to Bakhtin's understanding of the medieval carnival embodies the ambivalent spirit of Russian culture and politics The book further argues that the tragifarcical perception of the world can be seen as a national characteristic of the self doubting and ironic Russian sensibility under the influence of a repressive political regime
