Revival: A Modern Introduction to Logic (1950) Lizzie Susan Stebbing,2018-05-08 As the author of this volume states the science of logic does not stand still This book was intended to cover the advances made in the study of logic in the first half of the nineteenth century during which time the author felt there to have been greater advances made than in the whole of the preceding period from the time of Aristotle Advances which in her eyes were not present in contemporary text books As such this book offers a valuable insight into the progress of the subject tracing this frenetic period in its development with a first hand awareness of its documentary value

Johnson,2012-11-12 This book works through some of the theoretical issues that have been accumulating in informal logic over the past 20 years At the same time it defines a core position in the theory of argument in which those issues can be further explored The underlying concern that motivates this work is the health of practice of argumentation as an important cultural artifact A further concern is for logic as a discipline Argumentative and dialectical in nature this book presupposes some awareness of the theory of argument in recent history and some familiarity with the positions that have been advanced It will be of interest to academics researchers and advanced undergraduate and graduate students in the disciplines of logic rhetoric linguistics speech communication English composition and psychology

Modern Logic — A Survey E. Agazzi,2012-12-06 Logic has attained in our century a development incomparably greater than in any past age of its long history and this has led to such an enrichment and proliferation of its aspects that the problem of some kind of unified recomprehension of this discipline seems nowadays unavoidable. This splitting into several subdomains is the natural consequence of the fact that Logic has intended to adopt in our century the status of a science. This always implies that the general optics under which a certain set of problems used to be considered breaks into a lot of specialized sectors of inquiry, each of them being characterized by the introduction of specific viewpoints and of technical tools of its own. The first impression that often accompanies the creation of one of such specialized branches in a discipline is that one has succeeded in isolating the scientific core of it by restricting the somehow vague and redundant generality of its original philosophical configuration. But after a while it appears that some of the discarded aspects are indeed important and a new specialized domain of investigation is created to explore them. By following this procedure one finally finds himself confronted with such a variety of independent fields of research that one wonders whether the fact of labelling them under a common denomination be nothing but the contingent effect of a pure historical tradition.

Chimakonam, 2020-10-06. Logic and African Philosophy: Seminal Essays on African Systems of Thought aims to put African intellectual history in perspective with focus on the subjects of racism, logic, language and psychology. The volume seeks to fill in the gaps left by the exclusion of African thinkers that are frequent in the curricula of African schools concerning history, sociology, philosophy and cultural studies. The book is divided into four parts that are preceded by an introduction to link up the essays and emphasise their sociological implications. Part one is comprised of essays that opened the controversy of whether logic can be found in traditional African cultures as well as other matters like the nature of the mind and behaviour of African peoples. The essays in part two are centred on the following question: are the laws of thought present in African languages and cultures? Part three brings together essays that sparkle the debate on whether there can be such a thing as African logic which stems from the discussions in part two. Part four is concerned on the theme of system building in logic; contributions are written by members of the budding African philosophy movement called the Conversational School of Philosophy based at the University of Calabar and the main objective of their papers is to formulate systems of African logic.

zhixing Through discussion of these debates the course of Chinese philosophy unfolds Modern Chinese philosophy has made landmark achievements in the development of historical and epistemological theory namely the dynamic and revolutionary theory of reflection However modern Chinese philosophy is yet to construct a systematic overview of logic and methodology as well as questions of human freedom and ideals Amid this discussion the question of how contemporary China is to take the baton from the thinkers of the modern philosophical revolution is addressed The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1977
