Modern Irrigation Technologies For Smallholders In Developing Countries:

Modern Irrigation Technologies for Smallholders in Developing Countries Gez Cornish, 1998 Modern Irrigation Technologies reviews the experience of smallholders with irrigation technologies in a range of diverse conditions in many different countries Some people argue that modern irrigation technologies are the key to increased food production However projects introducing modern irrigation technologies in the developing world have often failed because the irrigation hardware which has been developed for high technology commercial agriculture cannot be easily adapted for the use of the smallholder The author identifies the pre conditions relating to water availability institutional support and economic opportunity that must be satisfied before smallholders in developing countries can adopt irrigation methods and benefit from them The circumstances in which modern technologies were introduced are identified and the relative success or otherwise of the initiatives are summarized The book also contains a practical review of the range of irrigation hardware that is available and indicates the types of equipment that are more likely to meet the requirements of the smallholder sector G A Cornish is an irrigation engineer with wide experience of technology transfer and staff training on irrigation schemes in sub Saharan Africa and south and southeast Asia He currently works at the Overseas Development Unit of HR Wallingford UK Modern Irrigation Technologies will be an invaluable guide to project workers planners and smallholders involved in planning and designing irrigation projects Smallholder Irrigation Technology Melvyn Kay, 2001-01-01 This report is a view of irrigation technologies for smallholders in the context of improving rural livelihoods especially in regard to the prospects for sub Saharan Africa The role of traditional technologies is evaluated and modern water distribution technologies such as sprinkler and trickle irrigation are reviewed A broad classification has been made based on climate and the traditional agricultural background of the local people which links technology options to specific places to agricultural regions and to countries Best practices and technologies for small scale agricultural water management in Ethiopia. Makonnen Loulseged, Aster Deneke, 2011-07-21 New Directions for Smallholder Agriculture Peter B. R.

Hazell, Atiqur Rahman, 2014-03-06 The majority of the poor and hungry people in the world live on small farms and struggle to subsist on too little land with low input low yield technologies. At the same time many other smallholders are successfully intensifying and succeeding as farm businesses often in combination with diversification into off farm sources of income. This book examines the growing divergence between subsistence and business oriented small farms and discusses how this divergence has been impacted by population growth, trends in farm size distribution, urbanization, off farm income diversification and the globalization of agricultural value chains. It finds that policy makers need to differentiate more sharply between different types of small farms than they did in the past both in terms of their potential contributions towards achieving national economic growth, poverty alleviation and food security goals and the types of assistance they need. The book distinguishes between smallholders that are business oriented, subsistence oriented and at various stages of transition to the non farm economy and discusses strategies appropriate for assisting each type. The book draws on a wealth of recent experience at IFAD and elsewhere to help identify best practice approaches.
