Political Blackness in Multiracial Britain Mohan Ambikaipaker,2018-07-06 One evening in 1980 a group of white friends drinking at the Duke of Edinburgh pub on East Ham High Street made a monstrous five pound wager The first person to kill a Paki would win the bet Ali Akhtar Baig a young Pakistani student who lived in the east London borough of Newham was their chosen victim Baig s murder was but one incident in a wave of antiblack racial attacks that were commonplace during the crisis of race relations in Britain in the 1970s and 1980s Ali Akhtar Baig s death also catalyzed the formation of a grassroots antiracist organization Newham Monitoring Project NMP that worked to transform the racist victimization of African African Caribbean and South Asian communities into campaigns for racial justice and social change In addition to providing a 24 hour hotline and casework services NMP activists worked to mitigate the scourge of racial injustice that included daily racial harassment hate crimes and antiblack police violence Since the advent of the War on Terror NMP widened its approach to support victims of the state s counterterror policies which have contributed to an unfettered surge in Islamophobia These realities as well as the many layers of gendered racism in contemporary Britain come to life through intimate ethnographic storytelling The reader gets to know a broad range of east Londoners and antiracist activists whose intersecting experiences present a multifaceted portrait of British racism Mohan Ambikaipaker examines the life experiences of these individuals through a strong theoretical lens that combines critical race theory and postcolonial studies Political Blackness in Multiracial Britain

shows how the deep processes of everyday political whiteness shape the state's failure to provide effective remedies for ethnic racial and religious minorities who continue to face violence and institutional racism

Racial Categorization of Multiracial Children in Schools Jane A. Chiong, 1998-05-21 Multiracial students have unique needs that are not being met in schools because teachers and school personnel assume that those needs are the same as those of monoracial minority children. Children of multiple races are in fact invisible in the schools. On school and federal forms they are racially categorized based on one race only and such categorizations are not limited to documents. Schools and teachers may unknowingly transmit monoracial identity messages to multiracial students which is problematic for some students who may want to identify with more than one race. Our racial categorization process reflects the deficiencies of the concept of race in American culture and needs to be renegotiated. The multiracial child is a microcosm of the American cultural identity. Current racial categorization of multiracial children reflects a society that is still renegotiating its own racial and ethnic identities and these children bear the burdens of the difficulties. As America continues to become increasingly populated by diverse peoples, what it means to be American is in transition. Americans are moving away from a fixed notion of the American cultural identity toward an expanded, more inclusive resolution.

Multicultural Education of Children and Adolescents G. Lea Lee, Leroy G. Baruth, 2017-06-26 Multicultural Education of Children and Adolescents explores the foundations of diversity through cultural portraits of young people from a variety of backgrounds and provides practical strategies for shaping and implementing a multicultural curriculum. In Part I the authors introduce multicultural education as a concept and document the increasing cultural diversity of the United States. The text describes in Part II various cultural groups including African American, Indian, and Hispanic cultures to help pre-service teachers better understand the backgrounds of diverse learners. Part III focuses on topics that educators should consider when planning and implementing programs that teach acceptance and respect for cultural diversity. Through this series of applied chapters, teacher candidates will learn to use the most effective instructional practices with diverse learners and to work successfully with families, school personnel, and administrators to implement a multicultural program. Content and features new to the sixth edition include the following: Every chapter opens with a real-life story that introduces the subject matter by showing the ideas in action. Points to Ponder boxes urge readers to reflect more deeply on information they have just read. Additional Case Studies with accompanying Questions for Discussion in all chapters enable nuanced consideration of the crucial differences between culturally specific learning styles. Increased emphasis on Social Justice and White Privilege, including its effects on all people. Chapter 13 has been significantly revised to include increased and updated information on sexual orientation, including transgender students. Chapters in Part II now feature further expanded sections on socioeconomic status and conditions of each ethnic group.

Theological Education in a New Key Richard L. Hester,2025-07-31 This book begins with the story of Huckleberry Finn trying to decide whether he should turn in his friend Jim the runaway slave He believes that if he doesn t obey the god of slavery and turn Jim in he will go to hell

It is a crisis that reveals the power of the culture of slavery on the inner textbook of this White boy. Huck's dilemma points to the many ways this White professor explores his teaching career and his efforts to liberate theological education from the transmission of information banking education to opening the inner textbooks of students and their teachers. Richard Hester uses the metaphor of inner textbook to describe what we carry within ourselves that tells us who we are, what we seek, where we are vulnerable, and what we value. He contends that effective theological education opens these inner textbooks to be read along with the prescribed texts for the course. Hester gives attention to his own inner textbook, the Whiteness of it, and what he is learning about the Black experience. Theological Education in a New Key aims to help students and their teachers open their inner textbooks to the story of God's dream of belonging and diversity. Mixed Race Hollywood Mary
