The children remain with the same teacher or teaching team for more than one instructional year (Stone, 1995; Miller, 1993; Katz, 1992). Within the multiage classroom or program, there is an absence of grade levels and related labels (McLoughlin, 1969; Anderson & Pavan, 1993). Opportunities exist for each child to interact with children of varying backgrounds, abilities, interests, personalities, and ages (Anderson & Pavan, 1993). According to Katz (1995), "the intention of multiage grouping is to increase the heterogeneity of the group so as to capitalize on the differences in the experiences, knowledge, and abilities of the children."
