Gregory,David R. Wilcox,2009-12-01 The Zuni are a Southwestern people whose origins have long intrigued anthropologists This volume presents fresh approaches to that question from both anthropological and traditional perspectives exploring the origins of the tribe and the influences that have affected their way of life Utilizing macro regional approaches it brings together many decades of research in the Zuni and Mogollon areas incorporating archaeological evidence environmental data and linguistic analyses to propose new links among early Southwestern peoples The findings reported here postulate the differentiation of the Zuni language at least 7 000 to 8 000 years ago following the initial peopling of the hemisphere and both formulate and test the hypothesis that many Mogollon populations were Zunian speakers Some of the contributions situate Zuni within the developmental context of Southwestern societies from Paleoindian to Mogollon Others test the Mogollon Zuni hypothesis by searching for contrasts between these and neighboring peoples and tracing these contrasts through macro regional analyses of environments sites pottery basketry and rock art Several studies of late prehistoric and protohistoric settlement systems in the Zuni area then express more cautious views on the Mogollon connection and present insights from Zuni traditional history and cultural geography Two internationally known scholars then critique the essays and the editors present a new research design for pursuing the question of Zuni origins By taking stock and synthesizing what is currently known about the origins of the Zuni language and the development of modern Zuni culture Zuni Origins is the only volume to address this subject with such a breadth of data and interpretations It will prove invaluable to archaeologists working throughout the North American Southwest as well as to others struggling with issues of ethnicity migration incipient agriculture and linguistic origins

Oral History Reimagined: Emerging Research and Opportunities Pack, Sam, 2020-03-20 The traditional method of composing the life history as a flowing narrative is not only morally dishonest but also intellectually inadequate because it conveys the false impression of a chronologically timeless and uninterrupted soliloquy They are highly processed constructed and reified Questions have been removed entire sections have been reordered and redundancies have been deleted After the multiple stages involved in transforming a narrative life into an inscribed text the final product bears little resemblance to the original transcription of the interview By focusing only on the final product life histories ignore the other two components in the communicative process Oral History Reimagined Emerging Research and Opportunities demonstrates the potential of the life history to serve as a new way of writing vulnerably about the other by refusing to hide the authors by sharing equal billing in a dialogic encounter with their informants in order to produce an ethnographic narrative that is multivocal conversational and co constructed The book examines the idea that a reflexive ethnography in the form of a reciprocal exchange between researchers and informants constitutes the logical extension of reflexivity in anthropological research The book s ultimate goal is a balance that dissolves the distinction between the ethnographer as theorizing being and the informant as passive data that reduces the gap between subject and object and that presents both ethnographer and informant as having active voices Featuring topics on life histories reflexive ethnography and narrative structure of autoethnography it is ideally designed for anthropologists ethnographers historians policymakers academicians researchers and students Theatre Histories Daphne P. Youngs traces the idea of the Grand Canyon as an icon and the ways people came to know it through popular imagery and visual media She analyzes and interprets more than fourteen hundred visual artifacts including postcards maps magazine illustrations and photographs of the Grand Canyon supplemented with the words and ideas of writers artists explorers and other media makers from 1869 to 2022 Youngs considers the manipulation and commodification of visual representations and shifting ideas values and meanings of nature exploring the interplay between humans and their environments and how visual representations shape popular ideas and meanings about national parks and the American West Framing Nature provides a novel interpretation of how places especially national parks are transformed into national and environmental symbols

West is a complex region that has inspired generations of writers and artists Often portrayed as a quintessential landscape that symbolizes promise and progress for a developing nation the American West is also a diverse space that has experienced conflicting and competing hopes and expectations While it is frequently imagined as a place enabling dreams of new beginnings for settler communities it is likewise home to long standing indigenous populations as well as many other ethnic and racial groups who have often produced different visions of the land This History encompasses the intricacy of Western American literature by exploring myriad genres and cultural movements from ecocriticism settler colonial studies and transnational theory to race ethnic gender and sexuality studies Written by a host of leading historians and literary critics this book offers readers insight into the West as a site that sustains canonical and emerging authors alike and as a region that exceeds national boundaries in addressing long standing global concerns and developments Sovereign Acts
