A Multicultural Reader, 2002 Student Movements for Multiculturalism David Yamane, 2002-12-23 Beginning with the premise that a comprehensive understanding of American life must confront the issue of race sociologist David Yamane explores efforts by students and others to address racism and racial inequality to challenge the color line in higher education By 1991 nearly half of all colleges and universities in the United States had established a multicultural general education requirement Yamane examines how such requirements developed at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Wisconsin at Madison during the late 1980s when these two schools gained national attention in debates over the curriculum Based on interviews primary documents and the existing literature on race and ethnic relations education cultural conflict and the sociology of organizations Student Movements for Multiculturalism makes an important contribution to our understanding of how curricular change occurs and concludes that multiculturalism represents an opening not a closing of the American mind

The Leamington Italian Community Walter Temelini, 2019-07-18 The Leamington Italian Community intertwines personal and family stories with both empirical and intuitive writing to offer new historical insights into the complex social economic and psychological causes and effects of the migration phenomenon Walter Temelini meticulously reconstructs the history of immigration and settlement in Leamington Ontario of Italians from the southern regions of Lazio Molise and Sicily He explains how despite their regional differences three generations between 1925 and the 1990s forged a cohesive socially conscious and unique agricultural community by balancing their inherited values and their newly adopted Canadian economic opportunities Temelini's groundbreaking research draws on testimonial and documentary evidence gathered from in depth interviews with hundreds of residents as well as on original archival information and Italian language histories translated by the author and previously unavailable to English speaking readers He concludes his study with an investigation into the award winning novel Lives of the Saints by Nino Ricci one of the community's most celebrated descendants Drawing parallels between Ricci's narrative and the development of the community Temelini demonstrates that ethnicity can be transformed successfully into a powerful universal archetype and a creative force of identity A pioneering and authoritative work The Leamington Italian Community creates an intimate portrait within a global framework delving into issues both timely and timeless that will interest and inform the general and specialized reader alike

The Cultural Politics of U.S. Immigration Leah Perry, 2016-09-27 How the immigration policies and popular culture of the 1980s fused to shape modern views on democracy In the 1980s amid increasing immigration from Latin America the Caribbean and Asia the circle of who was considered American seemed to broaden reflecting the democratic gains made by racial minorities and women Although this expanded circle was increasingly visible in the daily lives of Americans through TV shows films and popular news media these gains were circumscribed by the discourse that certain immigrants for instance single and working mothers were feared censured or welcomed exclusively as laborers In The Cultural Politics of U.S. Immigration Leah

Perry argues that 1980s immigration discourse in law and popular media was a crucial ingredient in the cohesion of the neoliberal idea of democracy. Blending critical legal analysis with a feminist media studies methodology over a range of sources including legal documents, congressional debates, and popular media such as Golden Girls, Who's the Boss, Scarface, and Mi Vida Loca, Perry shows how even while multicultural immigrants were embraced, they were at the same time disciplined through gendered discourses of respectability. Examining the relationship between law and culture, this book weaves questions of legal status and gender into existing discussions about race and ethnicity to revise our understanding of both neoliberalism and immigration.

A Multicultural Reader, 2002, Grades 9-12

Unsettling America, C. Richard King, 2015-05. Unsettling America explores the cultural politics of Indianness in the 21st century. It concerns itself with representations of Native Americans in popular culture, the news media, and political debate, and the ways in which American Indians have interpreted, challenged, and reworked key ideas about them. It examines the means and meanings of competing uses and understandings of Indianness, unraveling their significance for broader understandings of race and racism, sovereignty, and self-determination, and the possibilities of decolonization. To this end, it takes up four themes: false claims about or on Indianness; distortions or ongoing stereotyping; claiming Indianness to advance the culture wars; or how indigenous peoples have figured in post-9/11 political debates, making claims through metaphors and juxtaposition, or the use of analogy to advance political movements or enhance social visibility and reclamations, or exertion of cultural sovereignty.

For Love or Money, Nancy Folbre, 2012-09-06. As women moved into the formal labor force in large numbers over the last forty years, care work traditionally provided primarily by women has increasingly shifted from the family arena to the market. Child care, elder care, care for the disabled, and home care now account for a growing segment of low-wage work in the United States, and demand for such work will only increase as the baby boom generation ages. But the expanding market provision of care has created new economic anxieties and raised pointed questions: Why do women continue to do most care work, both paid and unpaid? Why does care work remain low paid when the quality of care is so highly valued? How effective and equitable are public policies toward dependents in the United States? In For Love and Money, an interdisciplinary team of experts explores the theoretical dilemmas of care provision and provides an unprecedented empirical overview of the looming problems for the care sector in the United States. Drawing on diverse disciplines and areas of expertise, For Love and Money develops an innovative framework to analyze existing care policies and suggest potential directions for care policy and future research. Contributors Paula England, Nancy Folbre, and Carrie Leana explore the range of motivations for caregiving, such as familial responsibility or limited job prospects, and why both love and money can be efficient motivators. They also examine why women tend to specialize in the provision of care, citing factors like job discrimination, social pressure, or the personal motivation to provide care reported by many women. Suzanne Bianchi, Nancy Folbre, and Douglas Wolf estimate how much unpaid care is being provided in the United States and show that low-income families rely more on unpaid family members for their child and for elder care than do affluent families With low wages and little savings these families often find it difficult to provide care and earn enough money to stay afloat Candace Howes Carrie Leana and Kristin Smith investigate the dynamics within the paid care sector and find problematic wages and working conditions including high turnover inadequate training and a pay penalty for workers who enter care jobs These conditions have consequences poor job quality in child care and adult care also leads to poor care quality In their chapters Janet Gornick Candace Howes and Laura Braslow provide a systematic inventory of public policies that directly shape the provision of care for children or for adults who need personal assistance such as family leave child care tax credits and Medicaid funded long term care They conclude that income and variations in states policies are the greatest factors determining how well and for whom the current system works Despite the demand for care work very little public policy attention has been devoted to it Only three states for example have enacted paid family leave programs Paid or unpaid care costs those who provide it At the heart of For Love and Money is the understanding that the quality of care work in the United States matters not only for those who receive care but also for society at large which benefits from the nurturance and maintenance of human capabilities As care work gravitates from the family to the formal economy this volume clarifies the pressing need for America to fundamentally rethink its care policies and increase public investment in this increasingly crucial sector Resources in Education

Racial and Cultural Dynamics in Group and Organizational Life Mary B. McRae, Ellen L. Short, 2009-09-16 The field has been waiting for a masterpiece like Racial and Cultural Dynamics in Group and Organizational Life for a long time It provides a thoughtful account of the subtle barely visible and sometimes unspeakable influences of racial and cultural dynamics that occur in groups Leo Wilton Binghamton University State University of New York I believe that by focusing on group diversity this book aligns with a major trend that has not received enough attention Christopher J McCarthy University of Texas at Austin This book presents a theoretical framework for understanding leadership and authority in group and organizational life Using relational psychoanalytic and systems theory the authors examine conscious and unconscious processes as they relate to racial and cultural issues in the formation and maintenance of groups Unique among group dynamics texts the book explores aspects of racial and cultural influences in every chapter Readers will enhance their analytic and practice skills in addressing factors that impact diverse groups and organizations including ethical considerations social roles strategies for leadership dynamics of entering and joining and termination Key Features Case examples help readers integrate theory and practice as illustrated in transcripts of interactions from group sessions A group work competencies list ensures that readers master concepts as they progress through the book An assessment form allows the student or practitioner to evaluate concrete dynamics of groups such as size and gendered and racial composition This text is appropriate for graduate level courses incorporating group dynamics and multicultural topics in departments of psychology education counseling and social work It is also a valuable resource for counselors psychologists and other mental health professionals in preparation for group work The Routledge Companion to Education James Arthur, Andrew Peterson, 2013-07-23 The Routledge Companion to Education presents the most comprehensive up to date guide available to the major topics and theories in education Forty specially commissioned chapters covering all aspects of education introduce you to the key thinkers events ideas research and issues that have shaped the field of education Expressivity in Modern Poetry Donald Wellman, 2019-02-26 Expressivity in Modern Poetry explores three interrelated subjects The first is a general exposition of the radical or deeply realistic aspects of the poetry and visual arts of the modern period The focus is on the works of Ezra Pound as understood through a prism of postmodern thought The second subject is the poetry and poetics of Charles Olson a pivotal figure during the transition from modernism to postmodernism The third subject is contemporary innovative poetry with special attention to transcultural neobarroco and language centered aspects of composition The grounding for this section is found in the works of William Carlos Williams Aime Cesaire and Jose Lezama Lima A reversal of the relation between the center and periphery decentering the New York to Paris vector is crucial for understanding the Caribbean as a seedbed for both innovative and identity based poetics Wellman's purpose is to amplify the cultural importance of expressivity in a field where critical discussion is often dominated by constructivism and conceptualism Expressivity in Modern Poetry offers a new reading of the relation between twentieth century modernism and contemporary poetic practice Negotiating Belongings Melanie Baak, 2016-07-28 Belonging is an issue that affects us all but for those who have been displaced unsettled or made homeless by the increased movements associated with the contemporary globalising era belonging is under constant challenge Migration throws into question not only the belongings of those who physically migrate but also particularly in a postcolonial context the belongings of those who are indigenous to and settlers in countries of migration subsequent generations born to migrants and those who are left behind in countries of origin Negotiating Belongings utilises narrative ethnographic and autoethnographic approaches to explore the negotiations for belonging for six women from Dinka communities originating in southern Sudan It explores belonging particularly in relation to migration through a consideration of belonging to nation states ethnic groups community family and kin In exploring how the journeys towards desired belongings are haunted by various social processes such as colonisation power race and gender the author argues that negotiating belonging is a continual movement between being and becoming The research utilises and demands different ways of listening to and really hearing the narratives of the women as embedded within non Western epistemologies and ontologies Through this it develops an understanding of the relational ontology cieng that governs the ways in which the women exist in the world The women s narratives alongside the author s experience within the Dinka community provide particular ways to interrogate the intersections of being and becoming on the haunted journey to belonging The relational ontology of cieng provides an additional way of understanding belonging becoming and being as always relational

Getting Ahead Silvia Dominguez, 2013-12 Honorable Mention 2014 Distinguished Contribution to Research Award presented by the Latina o Sociology Section of the American Sociological Association Getting Ahead tells the compelling stories of Latin American immigrant women living in public housing in two Boston area neighborhoods Silvia Dominguez argues that these immigrant women parlay social ties that provide support and leverage to develop networks and achieve social positioning to get ahead Through a rich ethnographic account and in depth interviews the strong voices of these women demonstrate how they successfully negotiate the world and achieve social mobility through their own individual agency skillfully navigating both constraints and opportunities Dominguez makes it clear that many immigrant women are able to develop the social support needed for a rich social life and leverage ties that open options for them to develop their social and human capital However she also shows that factors such as neighborhood and domestic violence and the unavailability of social services leave many women without the ability to strategize towards social mobility Ultimately Dominguez makes important local and international policy recommendations on issue ranging from public housing to world labor visas demonstrating how policy can help to improve the lives of these and other low income people

Mixed Race Identities in Asia and the Pacific Zarine L. Rocha, 2015-10-08 Mixed race is becoming an important area for research and there is a growing body of work in the North American and British contexts However understandings and experiences of mixed race across different countries and regions are not often explored in significant depth New Zealand and Singapore provide important contexts for investigation as two multicultural yet structurally divergent societies Within these two countries mixed race describes a particularly interesting label for individuals of mixed Chinese and European parentage This book explores the concept of mixed race for people of mixed Chinese and European descent looking at how being Chinese and or European can mean many different things in different contexts By looking at different communities in Singapore and New Zealand it investigates how individuals of mixed heritage fit into or are excluded from these communities Increasingly individuals of mixed ancestry are opting to identify outside of traditionally defined racial categories posing a challenge to systems of racial classification and to sociological understandings of race As case studies Singapore and New Zealand provide key examples of the complex relationship between state categorization and individual identities The book explores the divergences between identity and classification and the ways in which identity labels affect experiences of mixed race in everyday life Personal stories reveal the creative and flexible ways in which people cross boundaries and the everyday negotiations between classification heritage experience and nation in defining identity The study is based on qualitative research including in depth interviews with people of mixed heritage in both countries Filling an important gap in the literature by using an Asia Pacific dimension this study of race and ethnicity will appeal to students and scholars of mixed race studies ethnicity Chinese diaspora and cultural anthropology
